DEDICATION

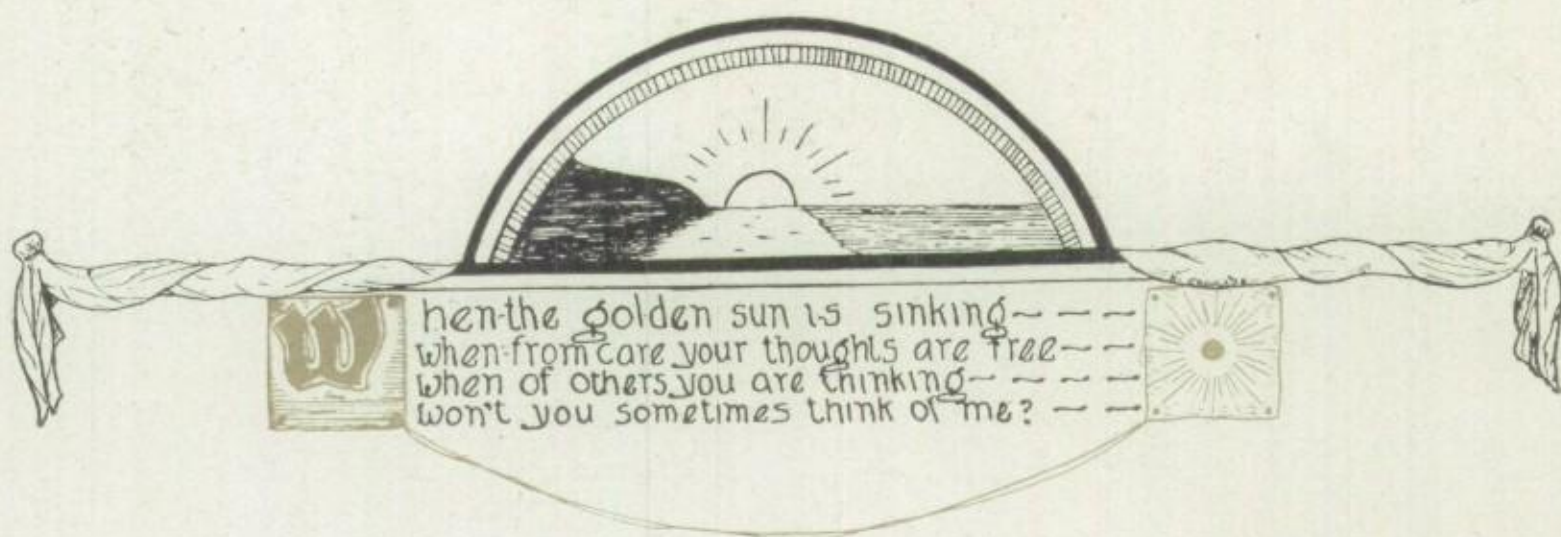

The Boomer of 1920 is dedicated to Miss Hayden, in token of esteem for her nobility of character and for the quantity and quality of work she has done to build a better Boomer.

In every work worthy of notice there is one outstanding person. In reference to the Boomer of 1920, we make no mistake in selecting Miss Hayden as that person.

THE 1920 BOOMER

When the golden sun is sinking ---
When from care your thoughts are free ---
When of others you are thinking ---
Won't you sometimes think of me? ---

TO THE SCHOOL

For you, O Senior, great and grand,
 Who now from out our high school
 goes,
 The proudest being in the land,
 Who yet a certain sadness knows.
 For you, who on life's portals stand,
 Your "High" beloved by hearts so true,
 I wish that Fortune's lavish hand
 May shower her richest gifts on you.

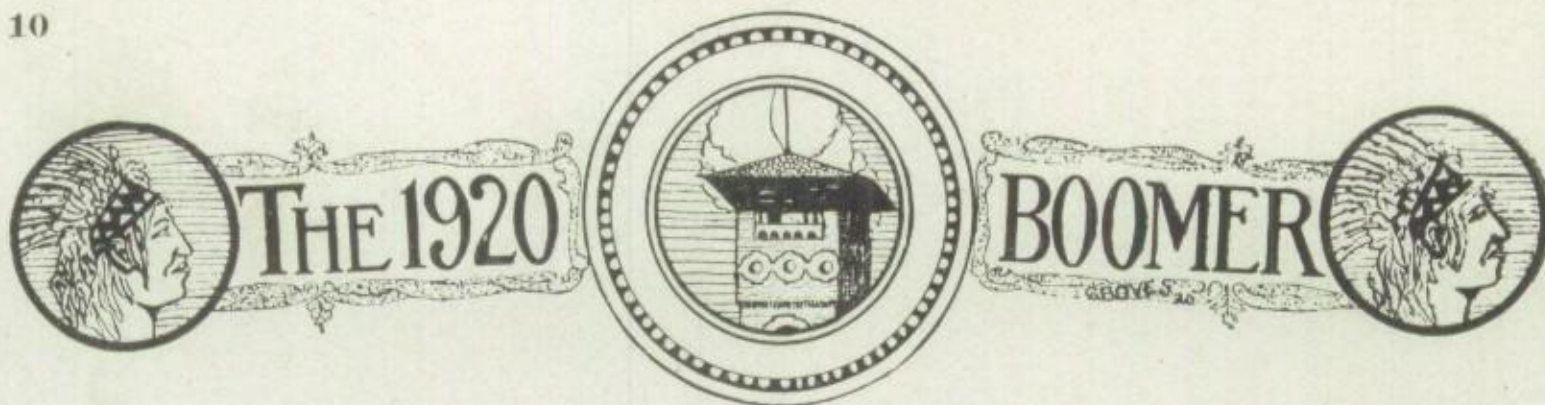

For you, O Junior, blithe and gay,
 You know the rumor ever rife,
 They while the busy hours away
 And love the lighter things of life.
 So, for you, at whom jest is hurled,
 Delightful Juniors, so care-free,
 I wish that in this darksome world
 Always you may light-hearted be.

For you, O Sophie, proudly wise
 O, younger brother all our own
 Whom Freshies see with wondering eyes
 While upper classmen laugh and groan.
 For you, who though so dignified,
 Are really full of fun and glee
 I wish that as the swift days glide
 Joyous and gladsome you may be.

For you, O Freshie, youngest one,
 Who doth to W. H. S. go,
 The cause of upper classmates' fun
 You, perhaps right sadly know
 Whom though we chafe, we still adore,
 Surely this fun you will allow
 I wish in future as of yore,
 Life's wreath of joy may crown your brow.

For you, O Faculty, so dear,
 You to us are always kind
 Most faithfully you help and cheer,
 Seeking for truth to fill each mind.
 For you, who teach us every good,
 For you, whom we all love so true,
 I wish the best of all things good
 May come to each and all of you.

Loyalty to Your School

Loyalty has always been ranked high in the list of human virtues. Since the beginning of the development of the human race, disloyalty has been frowned upon, and loyalty looked upon with the highest favor. How to give loyalty, and how to deserve and secure it from others constitute problems worthy of serious study.

First of all, one must be loyal to himself before he is capable of manifesting loyalty to another, or to any cause or principle. It has been well said, "To thine own self be true, and it will follow, as the night the day, thou canst not be false to any man." Be true to yourself, to your best thoughts, to your loftiest emotions, to your noblest ambitions, to your moving, controlling life aim, and you can never fail in your loyalty to any principle, cause or institution to which you pledge loyalty.

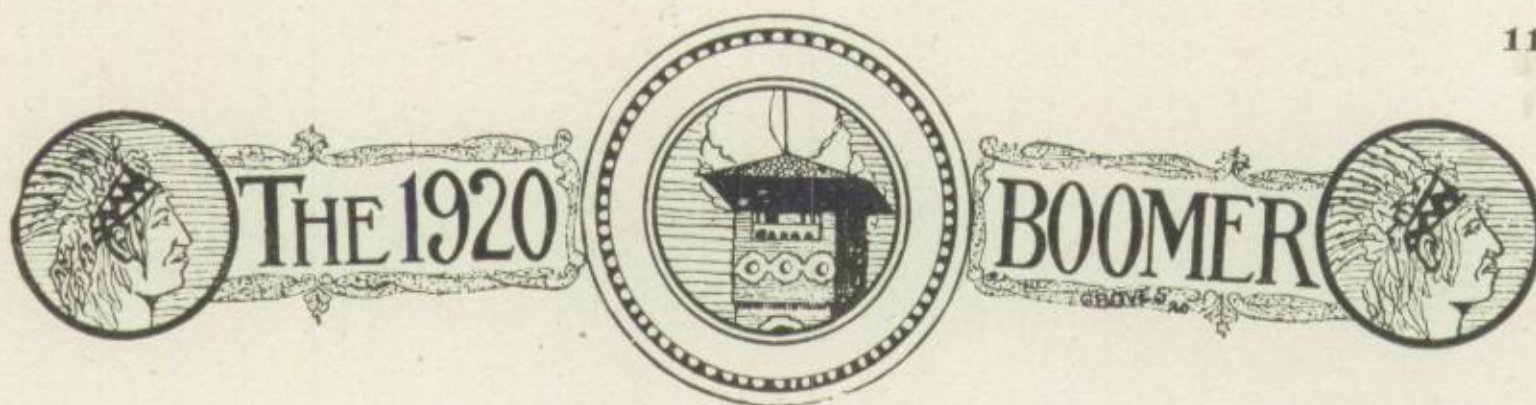

But, how can one be true to himself when no stable, abiding self-hood has been built up? For one cannot dream himself into a personality or self-hood, rather one must live, grow, develop, build himself into such. One can not be one thing today and another tomorrow, and by such means ever hope to build into a personality capable of giving loyalty or of receiving loyalty from another. One cannot be honest today and dishonest tomorrow; faithful today and unfaithful tomorrow; true today and untrue tomorrow and hope by any such means to build a stable, abiding self-hood capable of either giving or receiving loyalty.

Again there is a marked difference of opinion as to what constitutes a manifestation of loyalty. It is not by any means always the one who throws his hat the highest, or yells the loudest, or indulges in the most varied phases of outward manifestations who holds at heart, or in the truest sense shows forth the deepest and most abiding spirit of loyalty. Who among you this year is the most loyal to your school?

The most loyal of our student body are those who at all times have been found reliable and dependable; who have regularly met all assignments to the highest point of capability; who have willingly and gladly at all times listened to and been guided by the friendly advice and counsel of those in constituted authority; and who have at all times been found on the side of the highest ideals and most lasting tenets of Woodward High School. Many of these, I am convinced, though not all I am sure, have been content to be found quietly pursuing the even tenors of their respective ways, neither attaining nor aspiring to prominence in the public eye, though not by any means unnoticed or unappreciated on the part of the teaching force or the more serious minded, more appreciative of their fellow students.

They are most loyal to our school who, among our students, manifest in daily conduct, both in school and out, the highest degree of appreciation of the privileges and opportunities extended to them by the patrons of this district; who daily show forth the highest degree of reason, judgment, self-control, self-direction, poise, balance, high idealism as a product of the training received from school contact and associations; who assume and hold, in the years that shall follow, such an attitude that will not only maintain the present high standards of your school, but will also help to make for higher, better and more lasting standards from year to year for those students who shall follow after you.

In Vain Did They Bleed

Out from the darkness of strife and of war
 The nations are meeting the morning once more;
 A morning bright crimson so late painted red,
 With the life-blood of millions who suffered and bled.
 And though the dawn scatters the gas-fog away
 White bones and white crosses still tell of the fray.

We each may remember a brother or friend
 That into the carnage we freely did send,
 And oftentimes we weep o'er the never-seen grave
 Of one that we loved, yet loving we gave.
 And proudly they left us to march side by side—
 The rich and the poor, the new and the tried.

It was elbow to elbow by day and by night;
 Elbow to elbow some fell in the fight,
 Elbow to elbow beneath the French sod;
 Elbow to elbow at the judgment of God.
 Not a whit did they care whoever you'd been,
 If you answered the challenge and acted like men.

The lessons here learned are the lessons we need.
 Shall again we resort to avarice and greed?
 Shall social distinction once more sweep the nation?
 Can a man be a man wherever his station?
 If by winning we lose, and in losing no gain
 The lads in the trenches have given in vain.

"Carry On," cried the living as they faced steel and lead.
 "Carry On," came a whisper from those that were dead.
 "Carry On," then we must the work of these boys,
 And our land will be fairest and fullest of joys.
 If we fail in our trust, we know social wars
 Will blacken our land and fill it with scars.

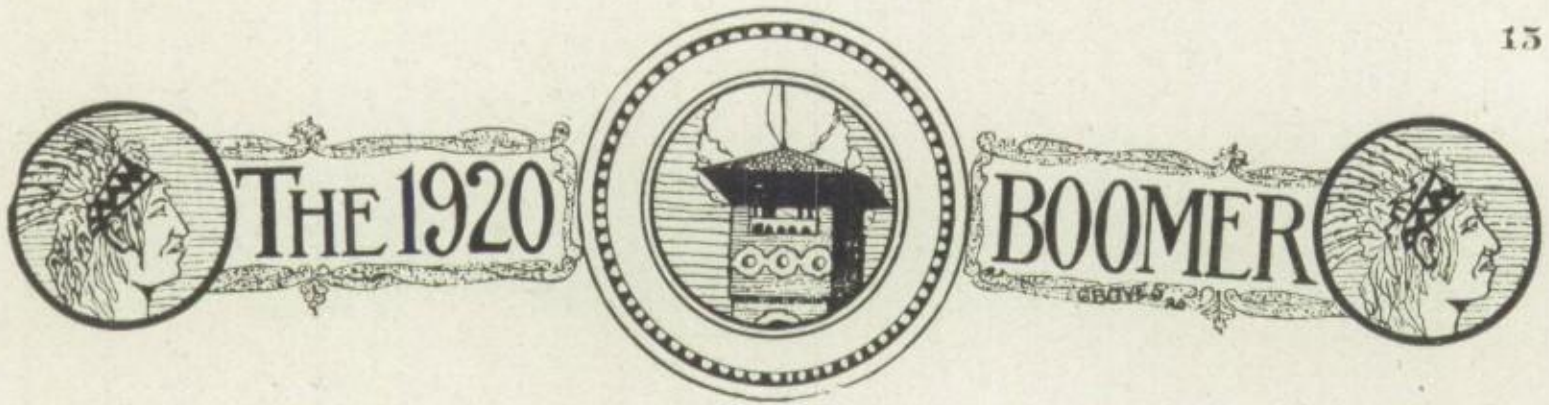

It is ours to keep faith with those who have gone,
 And carry, and carry, and still carry on.
 The work yet unfinished grows larger each day;
 Let us labor the harder and never delay,
 Till all is well finished, and then we will know:
 Our land is the fairest and fairer will grow.

—Claud Baird.

SUPERINTENDENT

This is Mr. Tyler's second year as superintendent of the Woodward City Schools. He has demonstrated even further his rare ability as a head for our educational system. When in years to come, we look back on our school life, one of our brightest memories will be of Superintendent J. W. Tyler.

In Memoriam

To the memory of our beloved friend and classmate, Audrey Shafer, we dedicate this page. She was always gentle, kind and true, with a kind word for everyone and an act to suit the word. And now that she has gone down in death, we can, by her example, remember the promise of the All-Powerful, "To them who by patient continuance in well doing do seek for glory, honor, and immortality, eternal life." Rom. 2-7.

It is not for us to pass lightly over our bereavements in sinful forgetfulness, for there are none whom it would not profit to give heed to more than the froth and foam of life. Nor should we allow ourselves to be so over-burdened with sorrow that we cannot see that hopeful side which guides us on with the assurance that "God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain." Rev. 21:4. And "Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning." Psa. 30:5.

May the memory of Audrey Shafer, one-time classmate and mutual friend, teach us by her own example to overcome all worldly cares and trials, for "He that overcometh shall inherit all things."

The Spirit of the Class

"The fittest shall survive." Who has not heard that old law of nature? Does not the class of '20 prove that it is true?

Where could you find a group of young people who are more fitted to battle with the affairs of life? Many who started with them found the journey too difficult and dropped out of the ranks. But those who are now about to pass from W. H. S. to win their places in the world were not to be baffled. With their goal ever before them they pushed onward.

Do you question the intellectual ability of the Senior class? Glance over the Boomer for 1920. Compare it with former issues. Look at the things which have been accomplished through their interest in the Debate and Dramatic clubs.

The Senior class is not lacking in athletic honors. Several of the girls as well as the boys, are proud winners of the "W." There are boys in the class who have won gold medals in various state contests.

In order to see real social spirit manifest, just attend a Senior Class party. These young folks enjoy wholesome merriment with an abundance of good eats for all.

Did some one ask about their inventive genius? Just remind them of the clever way the class redeemed itself by the "cherry pie episode" on April 1, 1919.

Fun and frolic have their part but there are times when it is necessary to face the sterner affairs of life. This demands seriousness; not the kind of seriousness which pertains to matrimony—but the kind that is necessary to battle the vital elements of life.

The ability to be serious when condition demands it, is one of the worthy qualities of the Senior Class.

R. B. G., '20.

What We Have Done

Nobody reads class histories. That is a foregone conclusion. What we have done concerns chiefly our own selves—yet in a way the Class of '20 has an enviable record. We, the Class of '20, have always backed our school and helped in every way possible to put forth the achievements which our school has accomplished the past four years. The pep and enthusiasm, which we have shown both for our class and for the school, has never yet been excelled by any other class. And now as we, the Class of '20, are leaving dear old W. H. S., we hope that we may not be forgotten. It is our desire, however, that you do not always remember and hold against us the dark pages of our record; but that you will best remember the bright pages. We have always stood for fair play, clean athletics, and victory.

YEAR ONE—1916-'17

Well I remember the way we looked in the days of our youth. One bright September morn in 1916, the halls of the high school building looked very strange. There were about ninety Freshmen standing around wondering what to do next. We bolted into classes where we didn't belong and when we were spoken to by an upper-classman we were so frightened that we could only stammer something and run. We all attended the annual Freshman Reception, but some of us were so frightened by the threats of the upper-classmen that we were almost afraid to breathe. It was not long, however, before we began to become accustomed to matters and a little of the green wore off. Some of our members had some very trying times battling with Latin and Algebra. Almost all of us, however, managed to master these two fates and received enough credits to be Sophomores the next year.

YEAR TWO—1917-'18

This year dawned bright and fair for the Class of '20. We thought we were nearly grown, for we were Sophomores now and we could haze the Freshmen. Our class, numbering fifty-six in all, was not as large as it had been, but we still had our pep and enthusiasm. That fall we had a big class fight and our boys fought hard. We proved that we had the real spirit. In athletics we ranked second, which was good for Sophomores, and we just lacked a few points of gaining first place in track. Joe Raynor played on the football team and was considered one of the best fighters on the team. Edith Newcomb was leading lady in the high school play. That year our battles with geometry and M. and M. history were beyond explanation. But when the war was over in the spring, we who had been faithful, won and were permitted to call ourselves Juniors.

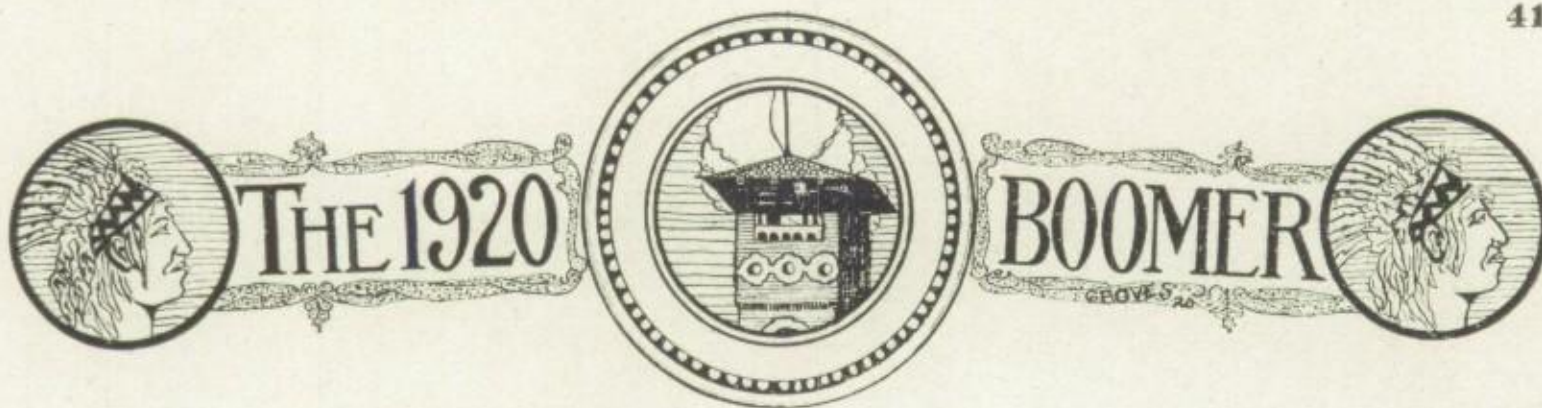

YEAR THREE—1918-'19

Now that we were Juniors, we considered ourselves very important. We succeeded in making the others take notice; for when we were afraid we were not being noticed, we would make some disturbance in study hall. Claude Leachman was elected high school yell leader and he filled his place admirably. Joe Raynor was elected president of the Athletic Association. Five of the first team football men were members of our class. We also had several members on both boys and girls basketball teams. The Juniors won first place in the inter-class track meet that spring. Russell Enlow was the all-round man on our school track team. He made nine points at the State Meet. Webster Sharp took first in the pole vault at the State Meet. On April first, the Juniors left town in cars at one o'clock and enjoyed the afternoon with a big picnic at Greer's ranch. We thought it would be a good joke but we will have to admit that Mr Warren had the joke on us, for he made us stay after school several evenings for punishment. When we marched with the Seniors Commencement Night we began to realize we were nearing the close of our days in W. H. S.

YEAR FOUR—1919-'20

We have had our triumphs, and our defeats as well, but class historians never mention defeats unless they are few enough to make the victories stand out in contrast. The Seniors are always supposed to excel the other classes and to lead them in their school career. We have tried our best this year to help the other classmen over the hard places so that they may share the joys in W. H. S. that we have been permitted to share. Claude has been yell leader and Georgia has helped him. This year we had six men on the first squad football team and we won some hard games. Our basketball record is also worthy of notice. We had some good players on both the girls and boys teams. The Senior girls won first in the inter-class tournament. We have some good track material also this year. Now we have thirty-seven members in our class. We all have received more benefit from our class work the past four years than we realize. And as we look back and remember how patient the teachers have been with us and that they have taught us something which will be useful to us in the future, we are all thankful that we were permitted to come to W. H. S. In after years we hope that each member may succeed and make a record for himself which will excel his class record. So we say good-bye to our old friends and teachers, and good-bye to the joyful days in W. H. S.

Senior Class Poem

The diplomas are hanging
As if high in mid-air.
We are striving hard to reach them
With patience, pride and care.

As time goes on its usual beat
They seem to come quite near—
We shall soon receive that honor
With a mighty shout and cheer.

We now have finished one noble task,
But, lo! we see ahead,
Greater, grander, nobler things
Which we, at present, must leave unsaid.

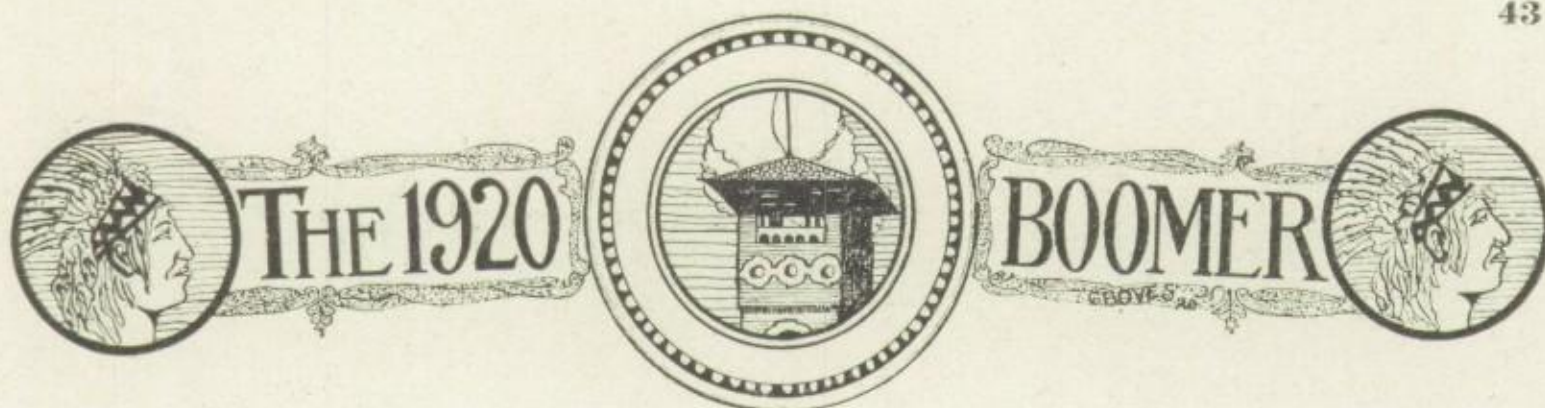

All of us are leaving soon—
To college some will go.
No matter where, we'll do our best
And to others, our good traits show.

So farewell to you, Classes
Who follow on our trail;
Keep striving for higher honors,
And your ship will have easy sail.

R. E. '21.

THE 1920 BOOMER

Ode to Juniors

Behold, the dawn of day is here,
 The air is full of atmosphere.
 Just eighteen hours before this date,
 The Junior girls did meet their fate.
 Oh! hard boiled egg! Oh! demagogue!
 Oh! hot tamale; polywog!
 Now all these signs, both glum and grim
 The Senior Girls invoked to win.
 Great Jupiter of Valentine—
 I cannot make distinctions fine—
 Determined that upon this day
 Both right and justice have their say.
 They had their say, and this they said:—
 "We'll soak the Juniors on the head."
 We had a center both fair and tall
 Who always managed to swat the ball.
 She wasn't afraid to punch a nose
 Or tramp on some fair one's toes.
 The name of this girl whose deeds I harp,
 Is Dorothy Miles (soon to be Sharp).
 Both Doris and Mildred were warriors true,
 And Nettie and Wilma and Cecila, too.
 These are the girls that won the game.
 May honor and glory both perch on their name.
 So much for the living, and now for the dead,
 Whose mem'ry we mourn as tho' out of our head.
 However, before we begin to lament,
 I'd like to remind you of an incident.
 Whenever our girls would make a free goal,
 Claude Leachman would jump with heart and with soul.
 He must have enjoyed these shenanigans wild.
 But judge him not harshly—he's only a child.
 Oh Junior class spirit, where you are we can't tell.
 But we strongly suspicion it must be in—Tangier.
 Ashes to ashes and dust to dust,
 If the Sophomores don't get you, the Seniors must.

EDITH REVES

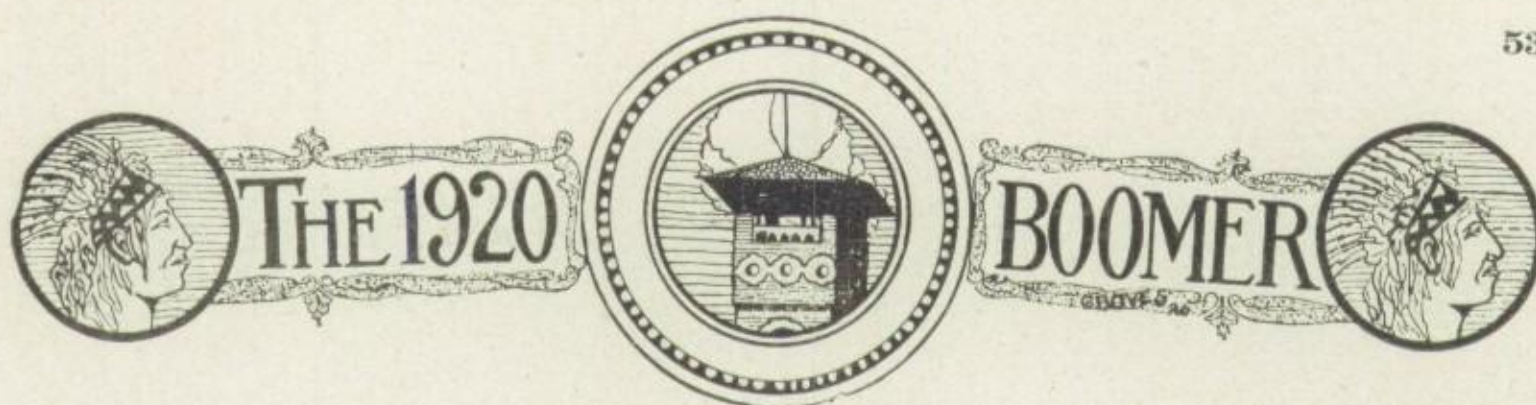

"Greatest truths are the simplest, so are the greatest women."

IVAN MOORE

"He serves all who dares be true."

RUBY HIGGINS

"In the depths of those dark eyes—"

LAUREL JOHNSON

"Fair as the earliest beam of eastern light."

FELIX MORRIS

"Sir, you have wrestled well and overthrown more than your enemies."

FAYE PATRICK

"A happy disposition is a gift of Nature."

MARVEL HARRIS

"She's with us, whate'er we do."

KENNETH PETTYJOHN

"Too foolish for a tear; too wicked for a smile."

CLARA CHENOWETH

"Solitude sometimes is best society. And short retirement urges sweet returns."

MAMIE TAYLOR

"The larger heart, the kindlier hand."

ROBERT HALDERMAN

"Still they gazed and still the wonder grew—that one small head could carry all he knew."

LUCY BOUGHAN

"Within is the fountain of good and it will ever bubble up if thou wilt ever dig."

WALTER OWEN

"Beware the wrath of a patient man."

JEAN MULLINS

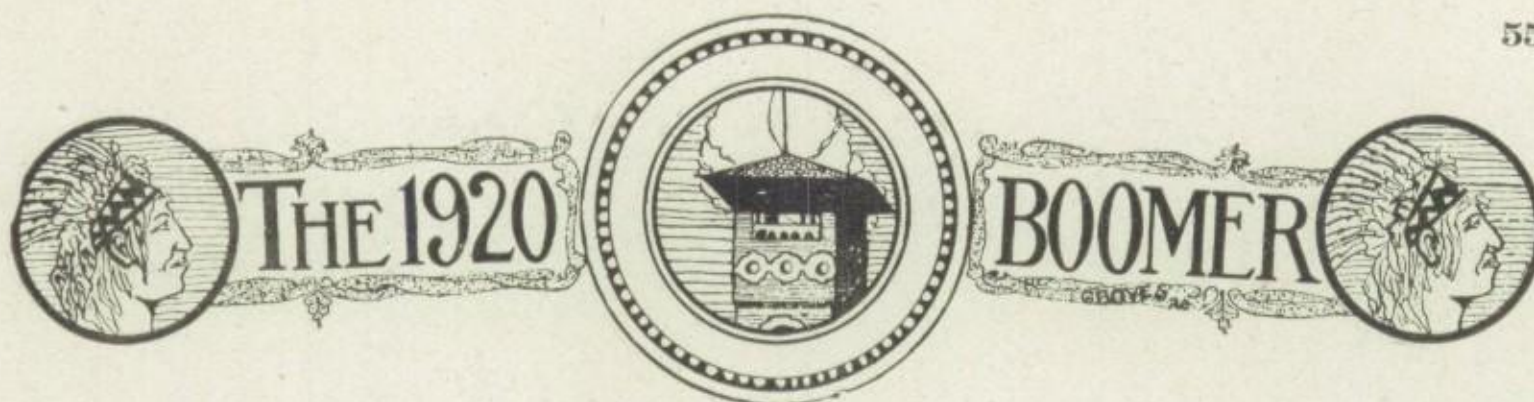

"I slept and dreamed that life was Beauty—I woke and found that life was Duty."

CLARENCE OWEN

"Happy as the day is long—and longer."

HELEN MELOY

"None knew her but to love her,
None named her but to praise."

GRACE GARVIE

"Variety is the spice of life that gives it all its flavors."

EDISON NIXON

"He is happy whose circumstance suits his temper, but he is more excellent who can suit his temper to any circumstance."

LELA THOMPSON

" 'Tiny' of the light fantastic toe."

RUTH KENT

"The world is a bubble, so is the life of man. Be happy while you can."

Junior Class History

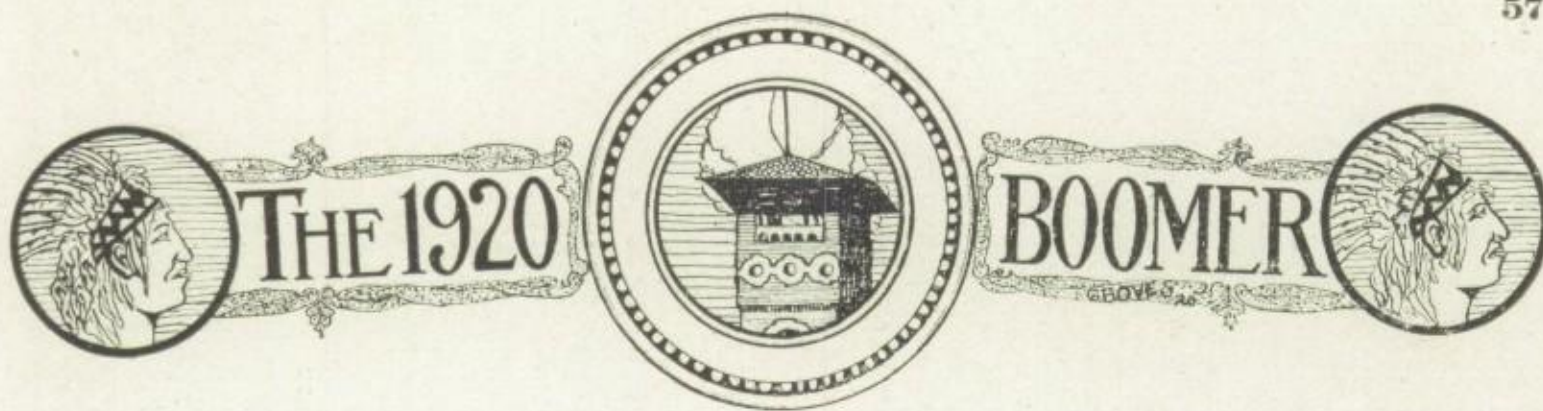

Now, folks, don't be frightened when you see
 That we have chosen to label this history.
 But read and see what we have done—
 This wonderful class of Twenty-One,
 That tramped up the halls three years ago
 A hundred Freshmen I'd have you know
 Who were so green they mistook direction,
 And all went in with the Senior section.

By other classes we were dubbed very meek,
 Well—the reception wasn't returned in a week,
 But nevertheless, although we were green,
 In debate Van Deusen made the state team.
 But knowledge wouldn't be gained in a day.
 So finally the green all wore away—
 We had stepped one step on the ladder bold
 With three cheers for the Purple and Gold.

Next year we came back all humming with pep
 With every guy, and a' rarin' to step.
 We won in track, we won in it all,
 We had not a stop, a stumble, nor fall.
 But like bad little children, we ran away
 And laughed at the Freshmen who had to stay.
 However, the teachers forgave us, quite,
 And we resolved hereafter to ever do right.

This year we are filling the Junior place,
 And are keeping up with our former pace.
 We are still very proud of our fine debaters,
 Of our football men and basketball players.
 But during these years we have older grown,
 And next will sit on the Senior throne.
 We have stepped again on the ladder bold,
 With three more cheers for the Purple and Gold.

Sceatta Foster, '21.

Nothing to Do

I've studied my English and worked like a top;
 I've finished my last bit of French,
 I studied my history 'till I had to stop—
 My ardor I scarcely could quench.
 I've tumbled the reference books out of the shelves
 And hunted them through and through,
 I've flung them where they may sort themselves—
 And now I have nothing to do.

The study of botany is all complete,
 My expression is something grand;
 Yet it's not the best in the land.
 My music, Oh, my! it's awfully sweet—
 I've studied everything 'till I'm out of breath—
 I've read my book report, too;
 Got up my note books. I'm tired to death,
 Because I have nothing to do.

But when I think, when all this is o'er
 And I'm drifting out in the world,
 When over business my thoughts I pour,
 And against hard problems am hurled,
 When I'll work all day with an ardent zest
 For the sake of a trade or two,
 Or finish at length not that which is best,
 I'd rather have nothing to do.

"Sparks."

VERNA LEACHMAN

"By loving looks and winking eyes,
In a red "Creation" she's a prize. (But taken)."

RETA ROBINSON

"She's tall, young and smart,
With latent temper in her heart."

ROLLO McKELVY

"His energetic walk, the poise of his head, the compression of his lips, not only reveal what he is going to do in life, but what he has already done."

MARGUERITE KOKEN

"Well dost thou thy powers display."

ZELLA SHELEY

"Content to work with hand or mind,

HURLBERT NEWCOMB

"His experience while he was president of the class will help him when he occupies the chair at Washington."

MARCELLA RACER

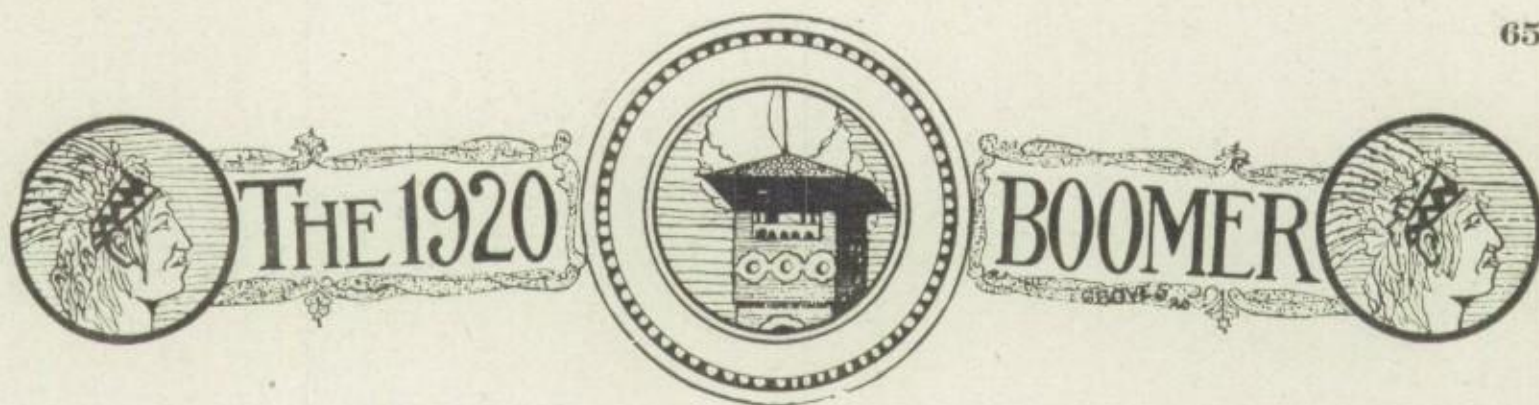

"In Woodward girls one seldom sees
Such features of the Japanese
She's pretty, trim and very neat
With perfect eyes and mouth complete."

RAY WILCOX

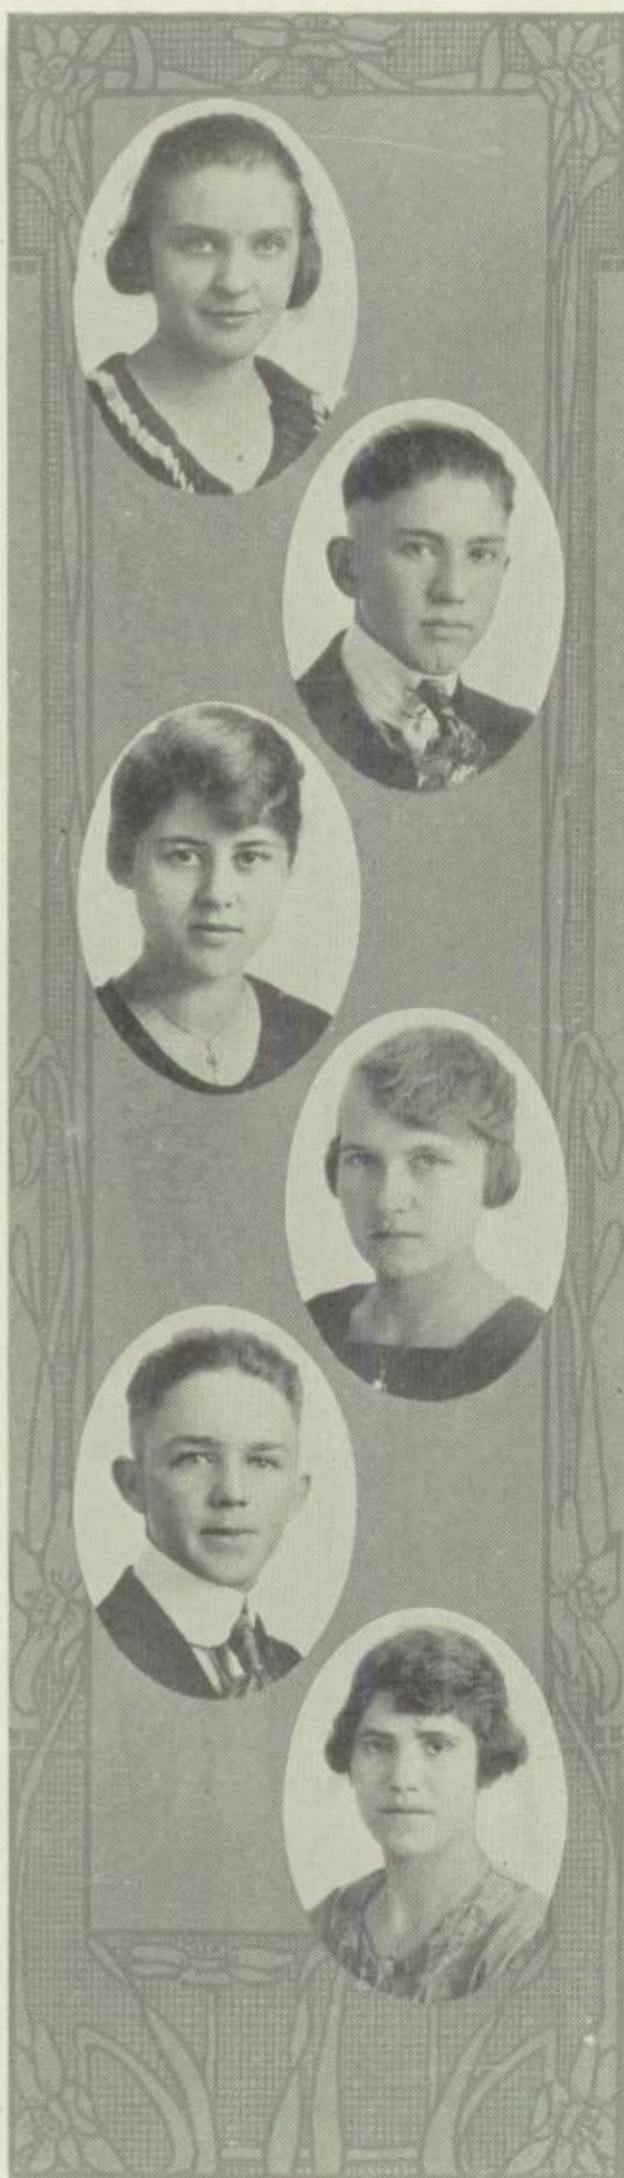

"He's short and funny, very teachable in class (?) and too bashful to mention any of his own abilities."

JULIA HERRING

Sophomore Class History

It is indeed a pleasure for the historian to introduce the Class of '22, which has been since the day of its organization the pride of the school and of every teacher's heart.

The class is animated by a universally enthusiastic spirit. Although it is rather a hard matter to get a quorum assembled to discuss our financial affairs, all are very prompt at our weiner roasts and parties where sometimes refreshments are served.

We take the lead in every enterprise and from our ranks come the champions of every noble cause. What would our beloved W. H. S. do for basketball players, debaters, and gold-and-white flags on the flag pole if it were not for us? Who would strap the trembling Freshman and teach him the ways of life more perfectly, if it were not for the Sophomores? As for wisdom and beauty, we are the "selected few." It so happens that every member of the class is a natural genius in some line. We fear that the wisdom of W. H. S. will fade into nothingness, when we are gone. In consideration of this fact, some members are thinking of staying three or four years longer, merely for the good of the school.

We are also very obedient to all the rules and regulations of the school. However, a few of our members have been sent home because the faculty failed to see the point in some of their innocent jokes.

Notwithstanding the fact that we are two years from the end of the high school course, we are by far the most learned class in the school. That the wise-looking Snior is IT—we don't think. Why, two of our humblest members stand for above anything in the Senior class—even the Faculty look up to us!

The Juniors—well, it makes us laugh to think of them. They are not to be compared with us for a moment, in either beauty, wisdom or wit.

The poor Freshman! Our hearts go out in sympathy for him, when we think of the long days and nights through which he must toil before he reaches the intellectual plane where we now stand.

Classmates, here's to your health!

Maude Ellen: "You let me copy off of your paper and I'll do something for you some time."

Miss Taylor: "Keep your feet still and make your brain work."

(Inez is busy copying off of Esther M's. paper).

Miss Taylor: "Tell me some more, Leo, I don't understand what you are trying to say."

Gwendolyn W.: "Miss Taylor, is this all right?"

F. M. Bookstore: "I don't know for sure, but I think it's like this."

Miss Taylor: "Please put your pencils down."

Hollis H.: "Some guy got off with my Latin book."

Mabel H.: "I'm just tickled green over my Latin grade."

Lorene R.: "I don't understand that."

Lucile D.: "What did you do that for?"

Scoville H.: "Just what I said? That's what I meant." (He usually has it wrong).

Ida C.: "I can spell it, but I can't pronounce it."

Miss Taylor: "Keep your eyes on your own board space."

Clinton Powers: "What did you say?"

Bessie Lou: "Who, me? Oh!"

(Edith A. is coming in late, because she went to get an excuse for being late the morning before).

Esther G.: "I don't believe I know that."

Leo B.: "I did know, but I forgot."

Corene R.: "Oh, yes; I remember now."

Roseilia H.: "I remember of reading about that."

(Esther M. still chewing gum). Bell rings. Exit Latin class.

September, 1919

Can you imagine the position we were in September, 1919, when all we saw were strange faces and unfamiliar surroundings? All wore those curious, inquisitive expressions of the "Freshie," which say so querulously, "What next?"

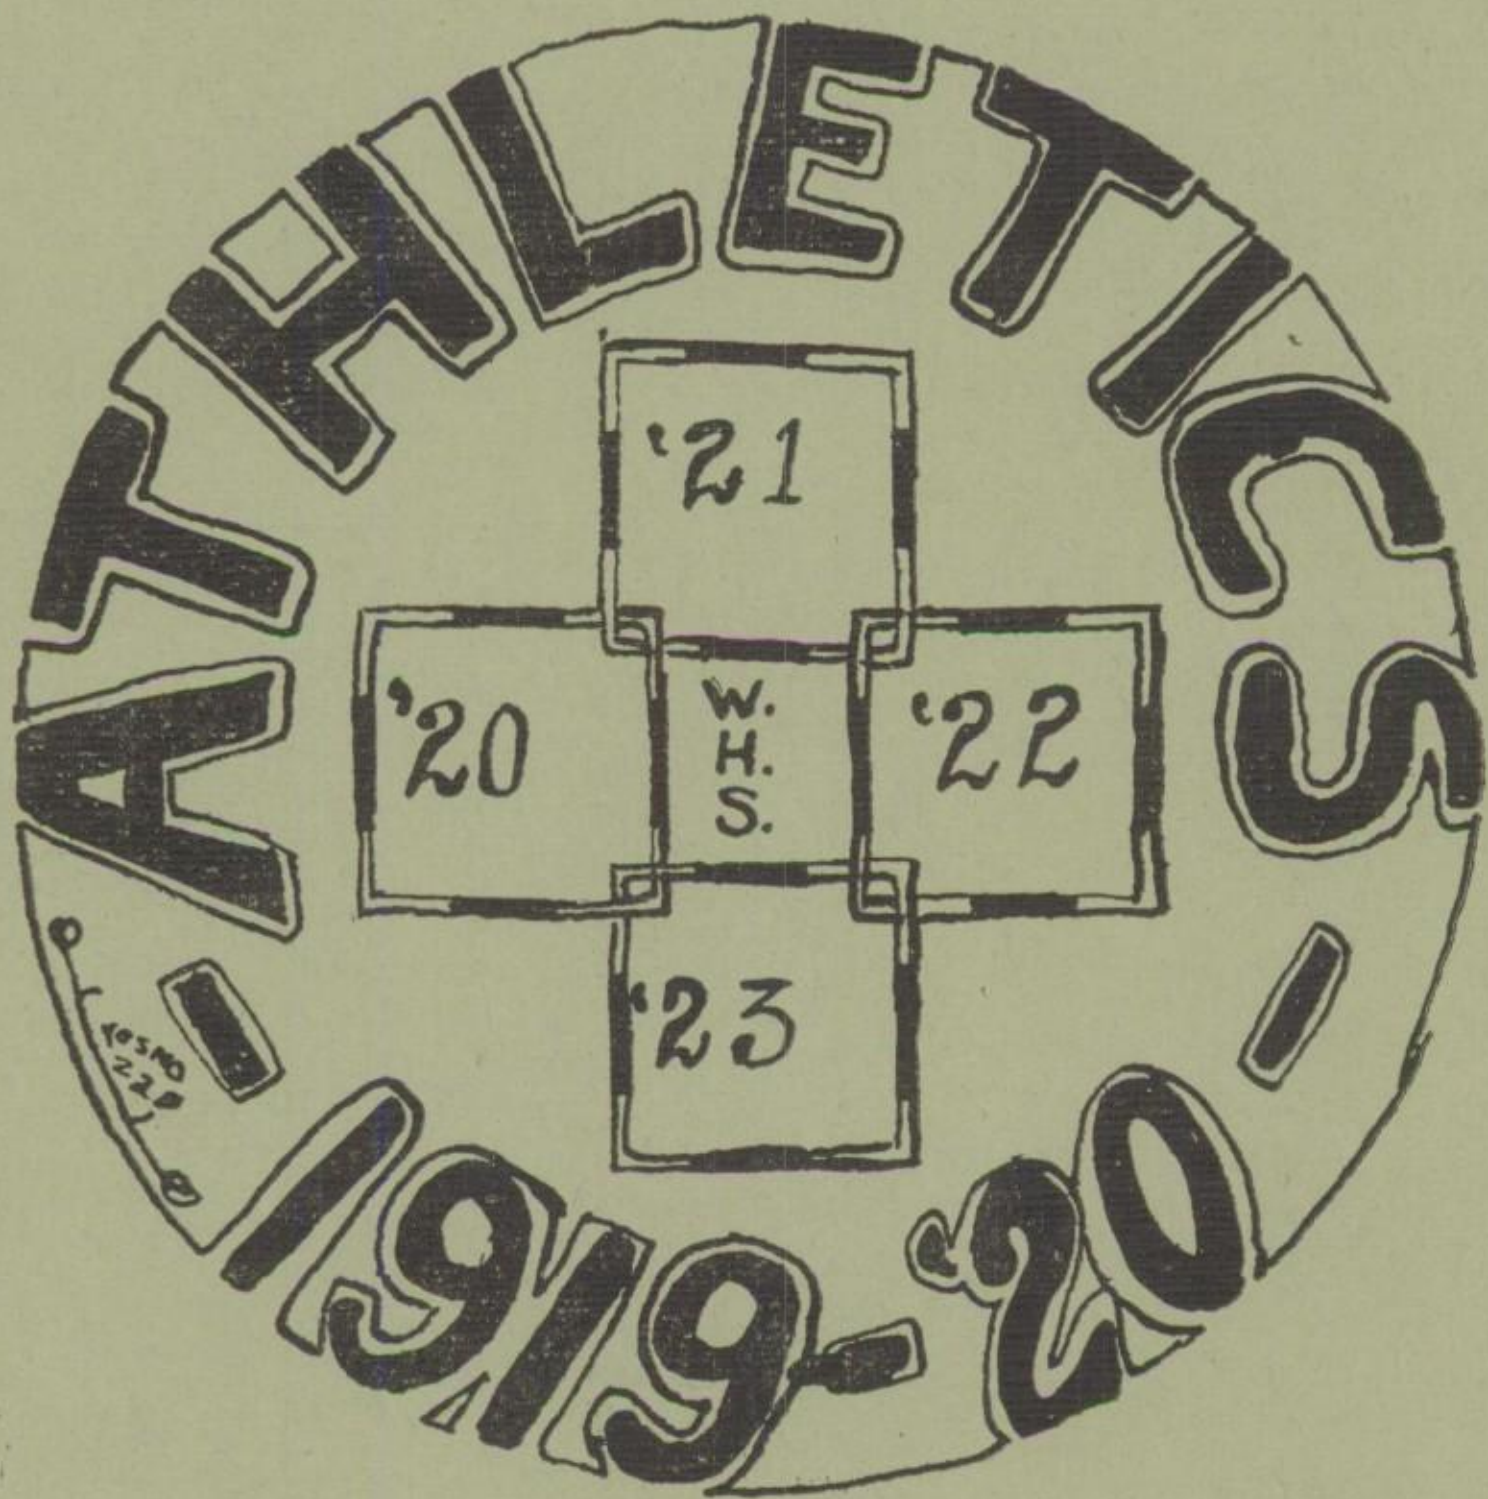

Although there was much confusion and exasperation, we recognized all of our old pals and became acquainted with many who later proved to be our classmates and friends.

Throughout the year, class room spirit and social affairs developed a strong spirit of unity in the class.

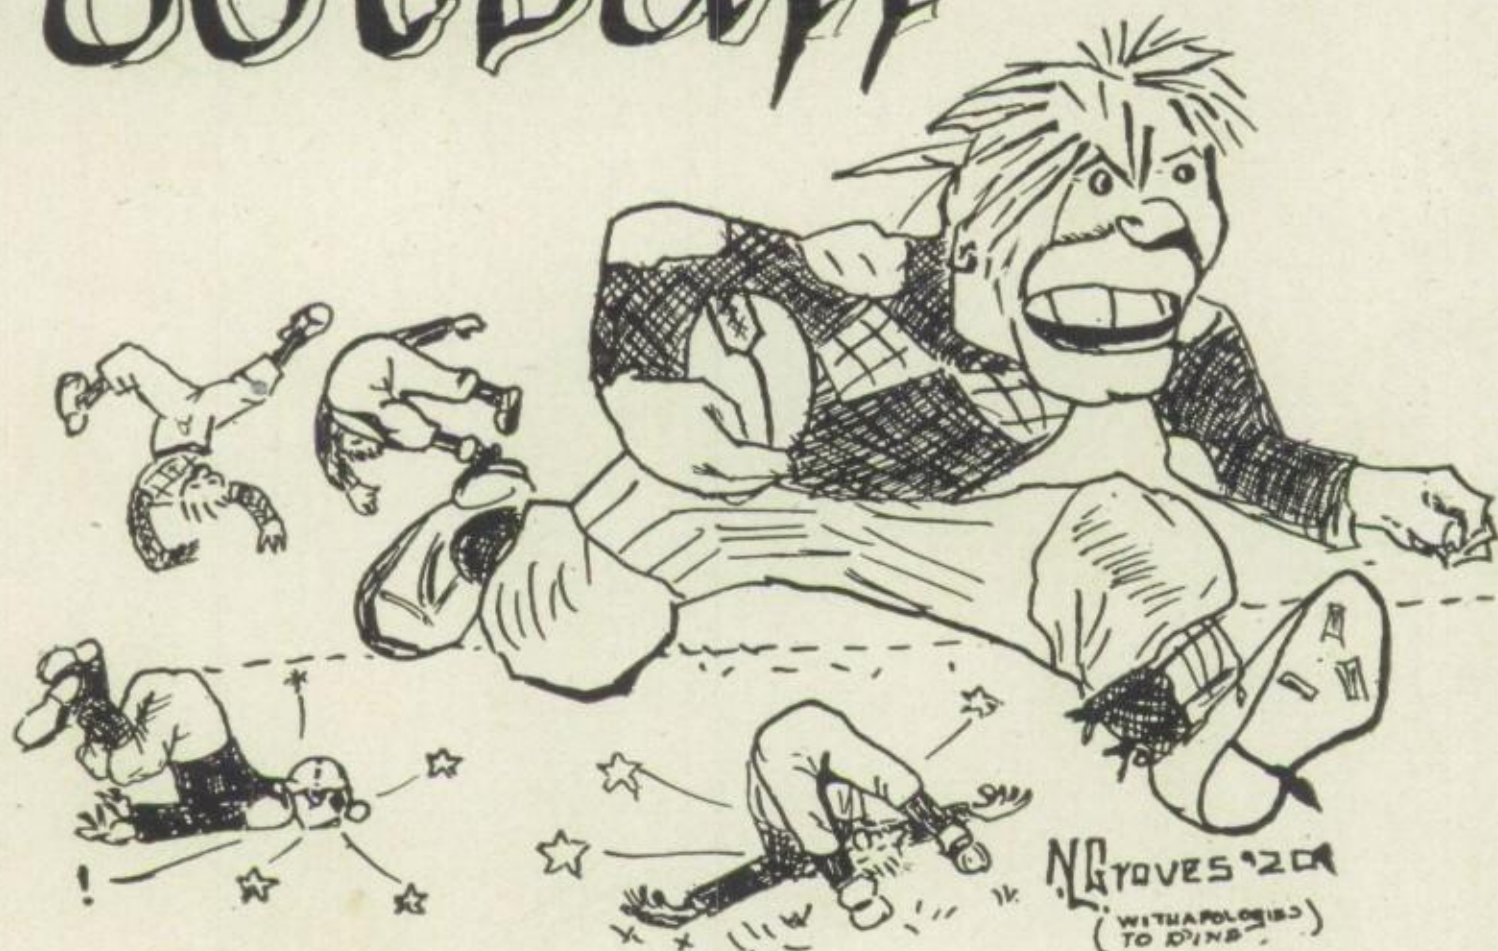

At this time our enrollment is about sixty-five and we look forward to 1923 when this class, undiminished, will graduate from W. H. S.

COACH

He helped the boys go over the top in Football, Basketball and Track.

THE 1920 BOOMER

CLAUDE LEACHMAN

Weight 147

CAPTAIN

Claude played left tackle for all he was worth. He generally played his opponent off his feet, early in the game, and had everything his own way during the remainder of the game. He graduates this year.

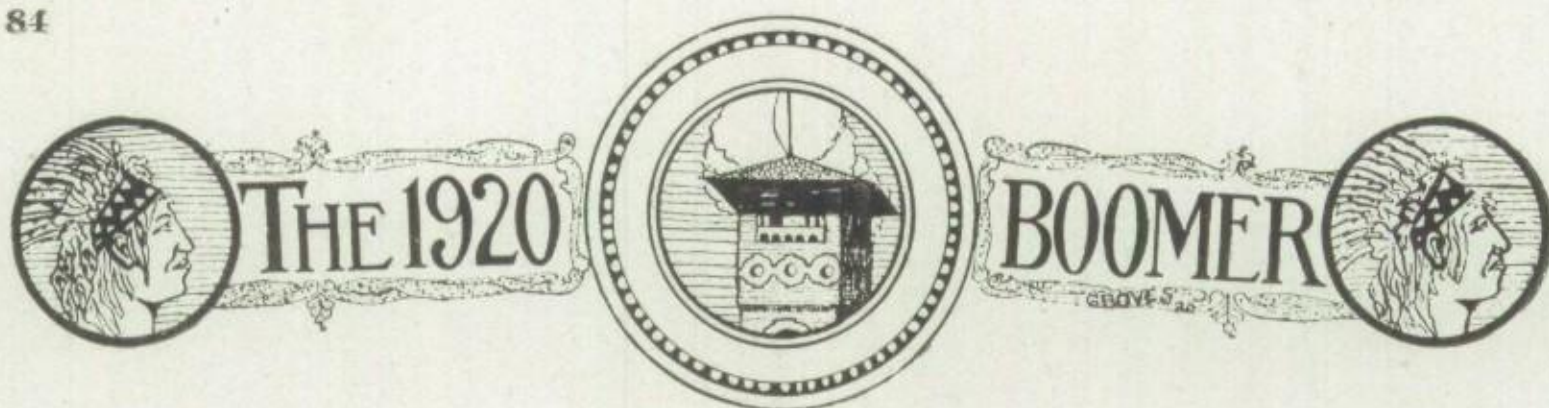

LOUIS DRESSEN

Weight 148

CAPTAIN ELECT

"Dutch" played his best game at Alva. He held down center position and always played his best when you could make him cry. He has two more years to fight for W. H. S.

RAYMOND KYSAR

Weight 165

MANAGER ELECT

"Ky" was our full back. He never knew when he had enough. The hardest hitter and the best line plunger on the team. A regular demon on defense. He has two more years in W. H.S.

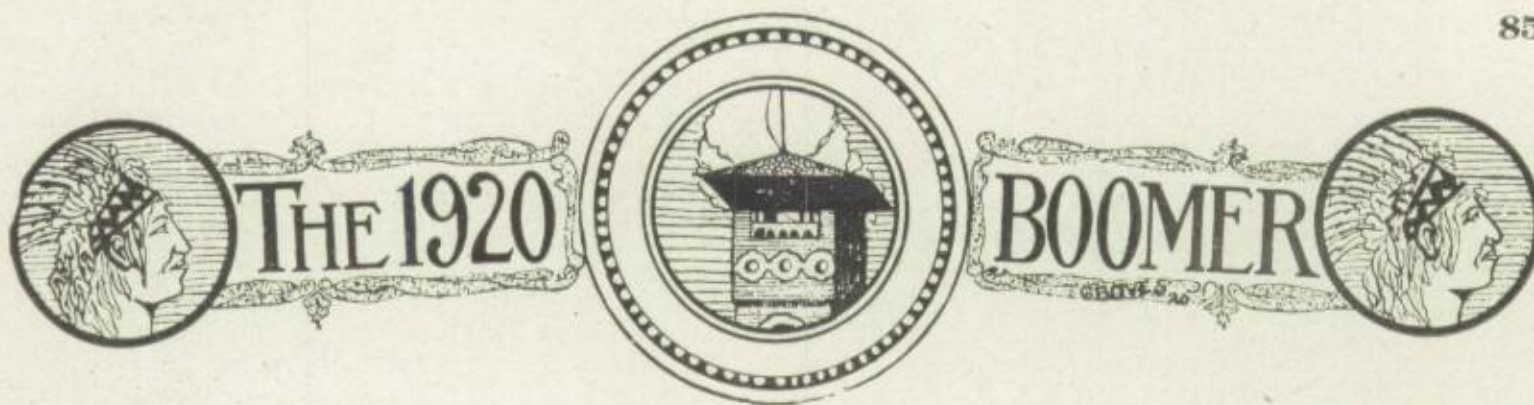

RUSSEL ENLOW

Weight 155

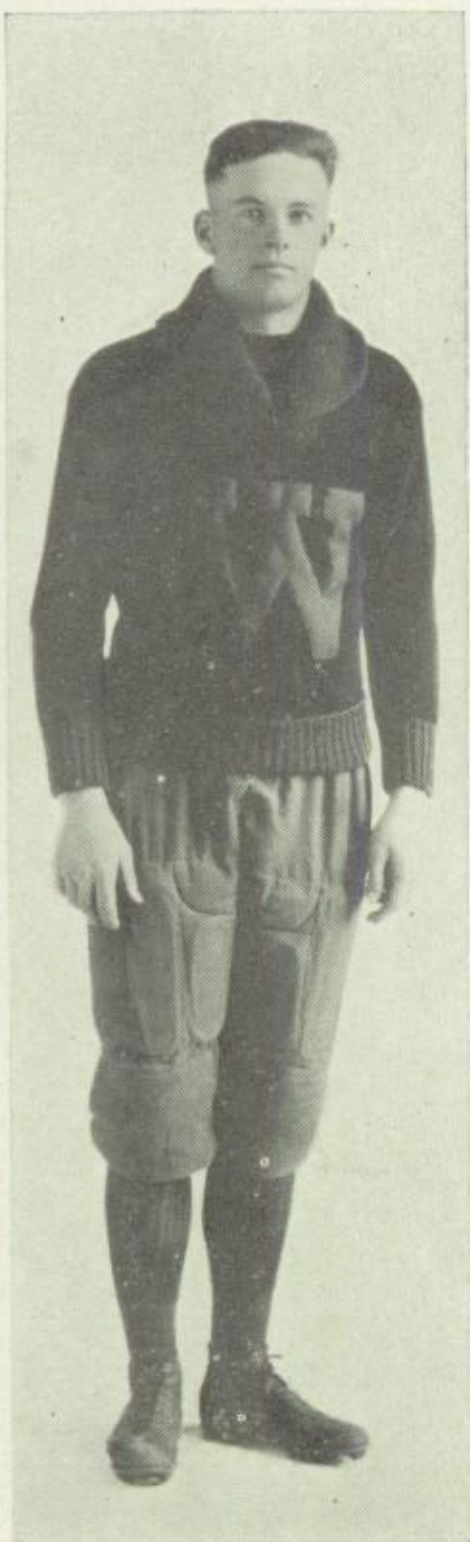

MANAGER

"Rusty" played right half and was probably the fastest man of the entire squad. A hard hitter and a good broken field runner. We shall miss "Rusty" next year as he graduates this year.

THE 1920 BOOMER

RALPH LEACHMAN

LEFT HALF BACK

Ralph was our most dependable ground gainer. Good at end runs and line plunges. He could have beaten Alva single-handed. He graduates this year.

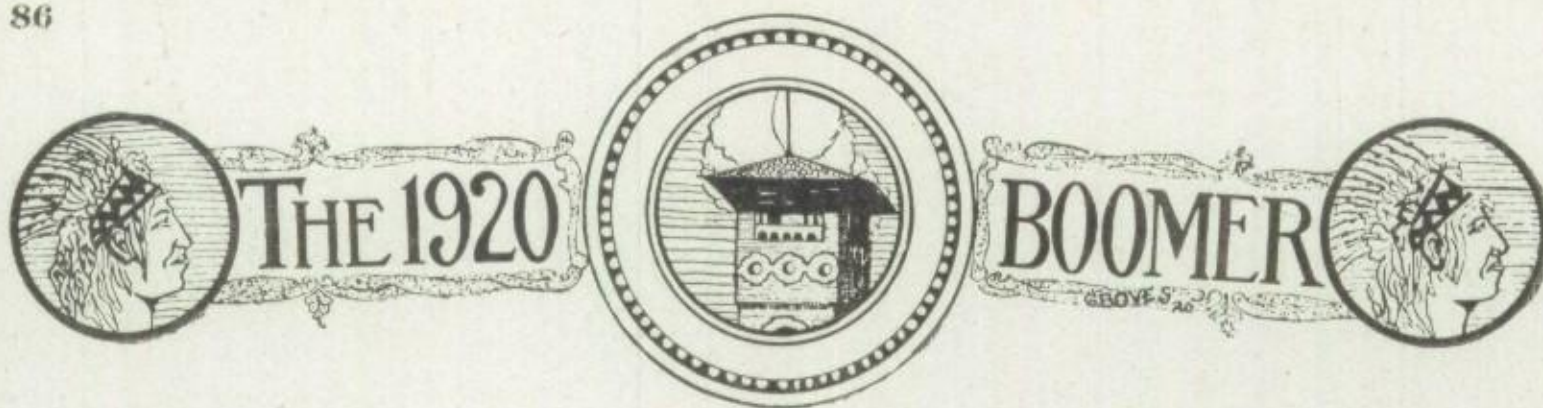

JOHN RAYNOR

RIGHT GUARD

Johnnie, though a mere Freshman, made the team the first year out. A steady fighter and never knew the meaning of "quit." He has three more years to help us out.

THE 1920 BOOMER

RALPH MILLER

LEFT END

Ralph was a good, dependable end, fast on defense and sure on offense. He snatched many a forward pass and went down the field for long gains.

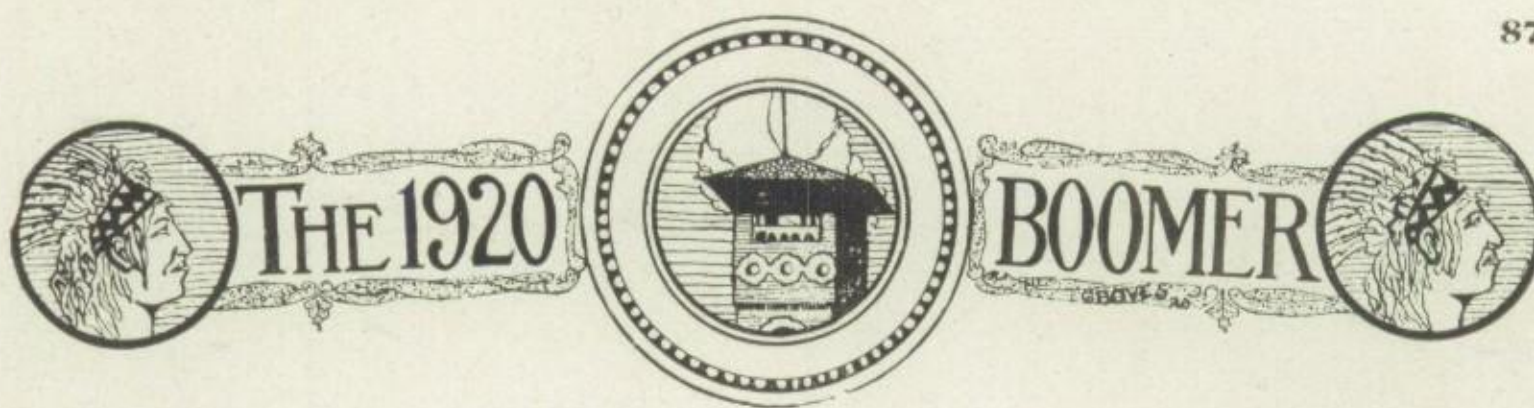

ALFRED GUSTAVSON

RIGHT GUARD

"Fatty Gus" was the conscientious man of the squad. He is a big chunk of beef and knows how to use it. A mighty good defensive player. Graduates 1920.

THE 1920 BOOMER

LAWRENCE HARR

RIGHT END

Lawrence played his position in a satisfactory manner. Very few gains were made by opponents around his end. He made several sensational gains by snatching forward passes. Lost by graduation.

RICHARD HUGHES

Weight 155

"Dick" was our "eat 'em alive" man. He played a steady game all through the season. Good on offense and defense. He is especially fond of iodine. He graduates this year.

JOE HERRON
LEFT GUARD

Joe was the strong man of the team and played a good, consistent game during the whole season. Never failed to make a hit with a waitress when we made our trips. He has three more years for football.

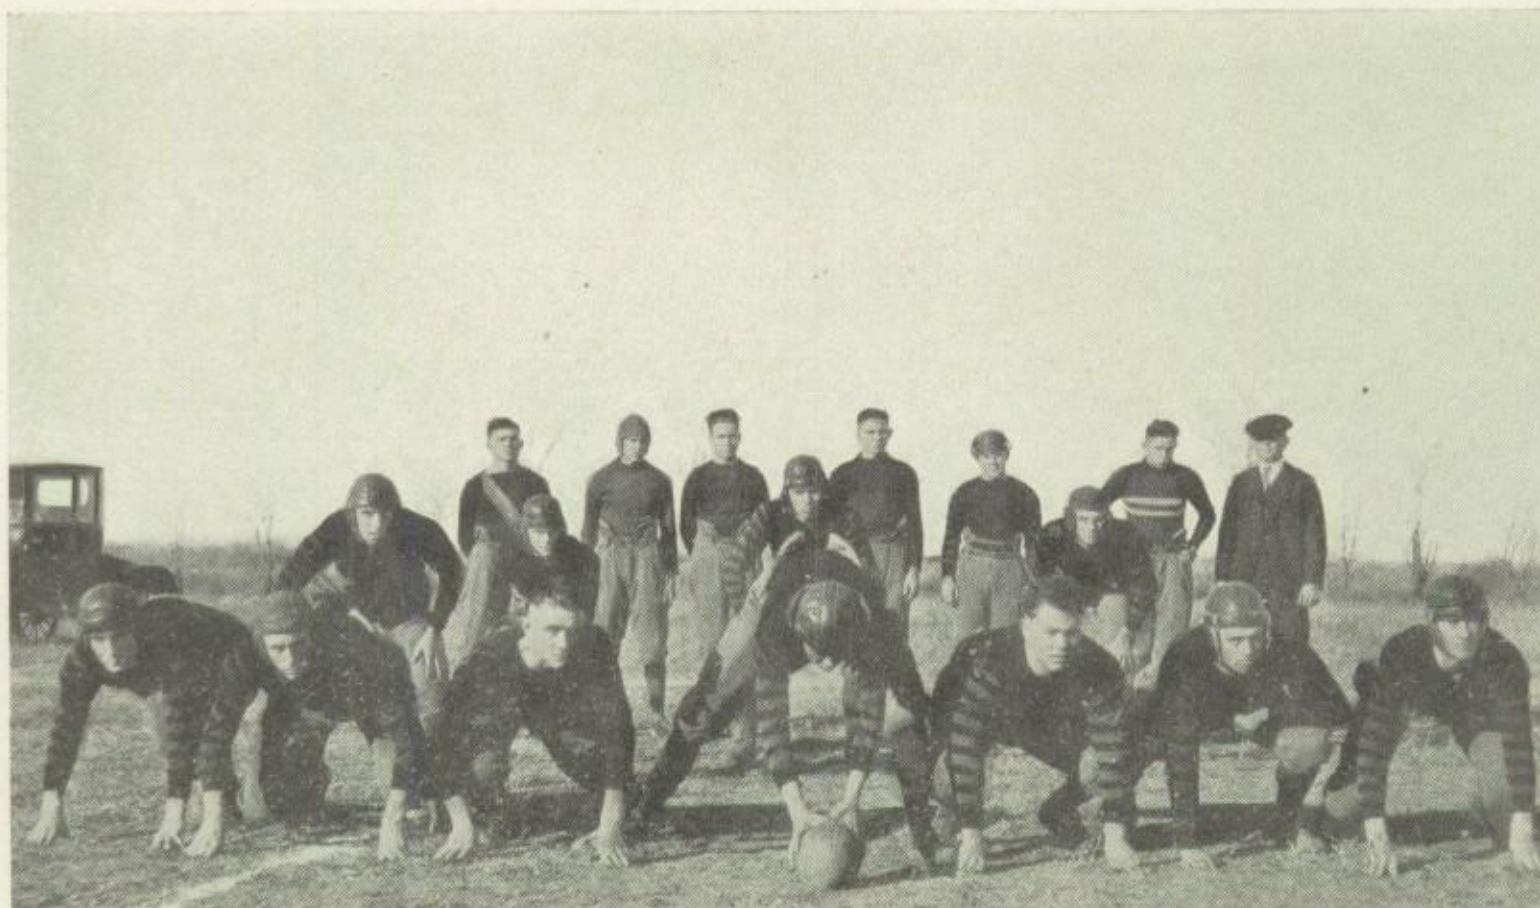

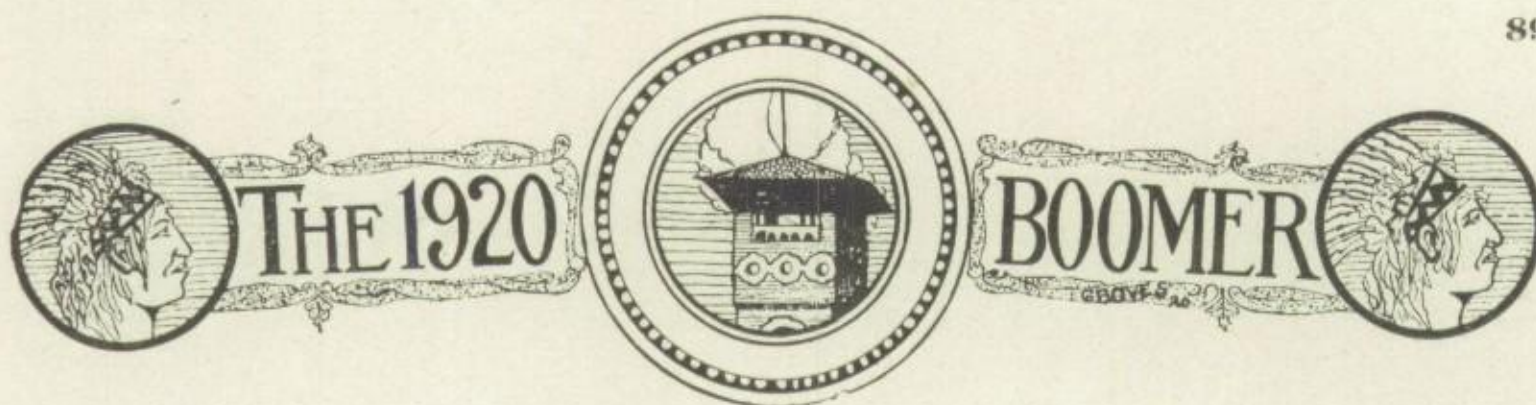

OAKLEY LEACHMAN

Weight 136

QUARTER BACK

Oakley played a mighty heady game; directing his plays in a manner which generally gained ground. No one got by for a touchdown when he played safety. He has another year for football.

FOOTBALL

The 1919 football season opened in September with Mr. Ward, the coach, and Claude Leachman, the captain. The first night started off with a jump, nineteen men being out in suits. Five of the nineteen were old men. We had practically all new material. Due to Coach Ward's and Captain Leachman's long winded talks in assembly, we were able to muster up two good teams.

After two weeks of hard practice, the Boomers played their first game of the season with Alva Normal. The Rangers had lots of beef and out-weighed the Boomers about ten pounds to the man. But the Boomers never feared, and entered the game determined to win. The game was straight football from beginning to end. But Alva's beef and line plunges carried them over the goal. "Sad Fate." Although we never made a touchdown, we held the big Rangers to a 20-0 score. This did not discourage us a bit, but we entered into practice harder than ever.

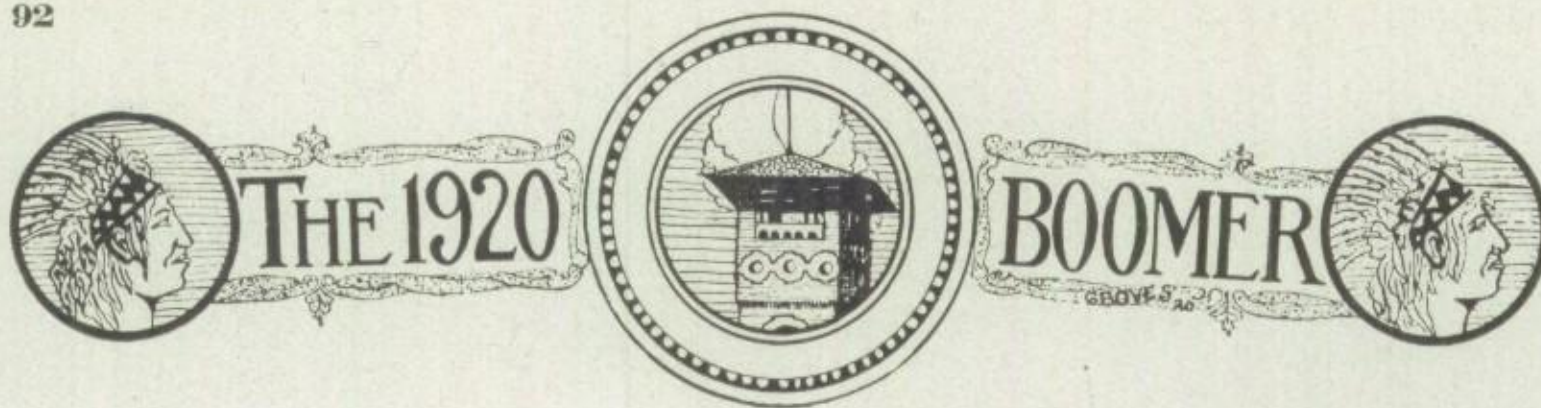

The time came to battle with our old rival, Cherokee. Our team was crippled Raymond Kysar, our big fullback, was not able to go. This somewhat broke up the back field. It was raining and the gridiron looked like a mud hole. The battle began but it was somewhat one-sided. "Another Sad Fate." Joe Raynor was injured in this game and was unable to play the rest of the season.

After another week of practice we met our old friend, Kiowa. This was a fast and snappy game from start to finish. Woodward had Kysar back at full, and Captain Leachman was back in the line. We were all in good condition and by our line plunges, open field running and forward passes, we were able to take Kiowa down to the tune of 30-3.

The time came our little scrimmage with Fairview. The day was windy and the gridiron faced north and south. Through the dust we were able to see the ball now and then. The big farmers were certainly rough sports. By the help of the referee and their 1911 rules, pushing them over the line, they won it over us. Undoubtedly the Boomers outclassed the farmers from start to finish, dashing from five to twenty yards around the ends and completing fifteen forward passes. Harr received a pass and raced eighty yards for a touchdown, the score standing 13-7. We are sure that we could defeat this team on any foreign field.

Another week of hard practice and we hit Alva High. The game was very fast and interesting. During the first few minutes of the game the Boomers rushed over the goal line; then again in the last quarter of the first half Alva scored, the half ending with a 6-7 score in favor of Alva. The second half Woodward got into the game and completed a few forward passes. The game ended with a score of 20-7 in favor of Woodward. This was the first time we had beaten Alva High in the history of Woodward High School.

Then we went to Kiowa. The first minute of the game, Woodward made a touchdown. The half ended with a score of 25-0. Fifty seconds after the second half began, the Boomers went over for another touchdown. Kiowa was unable to plunge through our line, but by a fake play they scored one touchdown. The game ended with a 39-7 victory for Woodward.

Our last game with Alva High, on our home field, was soon due. The Boomers did some star playing and gained from five to twenty-five yards every down. Alva was unable to break through Woodward's fighting line and failed to make their downs several times. The game ended with a score of 39-0.

We were unable to secure a game for Thanksgiving. We played seven games and won four out of the seven. We believe that we had one of the fastest backfields in the state.

We owe much of our success to our coach, Mr. Ward, and the six following men, who came out and helped us produce a team: Joe Raynor, Earl Smith, Leroy Hurd, Ivan Moore, Bert Bivens and Frank Roach. Twelve of our boys received letters this year, Captain Claude Leachman, Manager Russell Enlow, Ralph Leachman, Raymond Kysar, Oakley Leachman, Louis Dressen, Richard Hughes, Lawrence Harr, Joe Herron, Alfred Gustavson, Ralph Miller, and John Raynor. Seven of these boys graduate this year, leaving eleven good men for the coming year. We hope that W. H. S. will have a strong and successful team this coming season.

Review of Basketball Season

The season opened with anything but a promising outlook for a season of good basketball. The most serious handicap was the fact that there was absolutely no place to play. The situation was sized up and Mr. Tyler went before the Chamber of Commerce and explained our needs in such a manner that a campaign was launched to raise funds to erect a building suitable for indoor athletics. The result of this drive can be seen in the Community Building of which we may all feel justly proud. This gave us what is considered by critics the best basketball court in western Oklahoma.

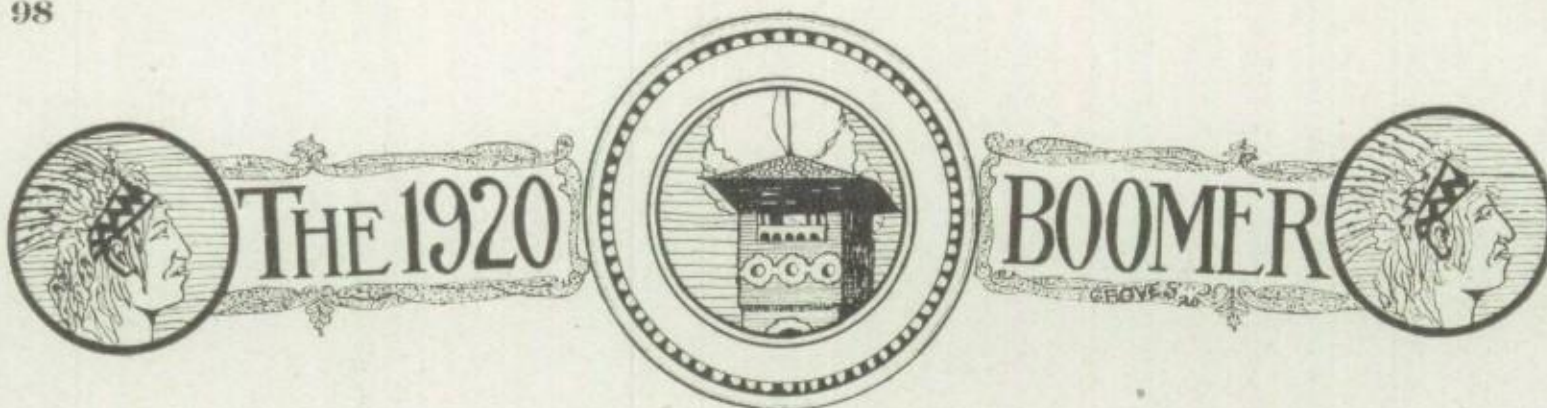

The season was opened rather late because of the fact that bad weather delayed the construction of the Community Building. The opening date was January fifth, with the Gage High School boys and girls as our opponents. We went into these games with a good, solid determination to win, and that is about all for we had had only one week of practice. The girls' game was played first and W. H. S. showed her superiority by taking this game by a safe margin. The boys' game, however, was anybody's game from start to finish. When the final gun was fired the score showed that we were one point in the lead. Had the gun been fired one minute sooner, we would have lost by that one-point margin.

These opening games showed where we were weak and we set about to remedy our weakness. The result was that we soon began winning games by a safer margin than one point.

Elsewhere in this Boomer is to be found the individual score of the players, and also the comparative scores of games with all our opponents. We feel, though, that something else should be said concerning the players and their individual work.

The records show that Webster Sharp was our main point winner. It was a good treat to see "Bill" get loose for one of his famous loop shots which never failed to astonish opponents and bring the rooters to their feet, cheering madly. "Bill" has only one fault—he drags out the toes of his shoes. Jesse Steele ranks next as to points, and Jesse sure was a willing worker. Every one of his opponents was a larger man than he, but Jesse made them all take a back seat before the game was over. If Jesse is influenced any by his associations, we might account for his game-ness, as he was generally to be found around Swift's produce house. Crusen Updyke was ranked as one of the hardest workers on the floor. He always covered more than his amount of floor and holds record for number of points scored in any single game this year, twenty-two points. Kenneth Pettyjohn, captain, played a successful game throughout the season, at guard. He always did his best and never met his match as a guard. Dallas Enlow held down the other guard position and covered all territory within a radius of fifteen feet, and up to the ceiling. He was also a dead shot when he happened to get within range of the basket. Arthur Morey, the smallest of the squad, was very fast and showed rare speed on several occasions. He can play best when his "Dad" is looking on. Russell Enlow did much to make the season a success. He played any position when called upon and gave a good account of himself at all times.

In addition to those mentioned, the entire "Midget" team was no small factor in molding a team for the season's campaign.

The Kansas-Oklahoma Meet

The Kansas-Oklahoma Meet was held this year on the 16th of April, under the auspices of Woodward High School and is considered the best Track and Field Meet ever staged by this organization. Woodward High School now has permanent possession of the Silver Loving Cup which has been won three years in succession.

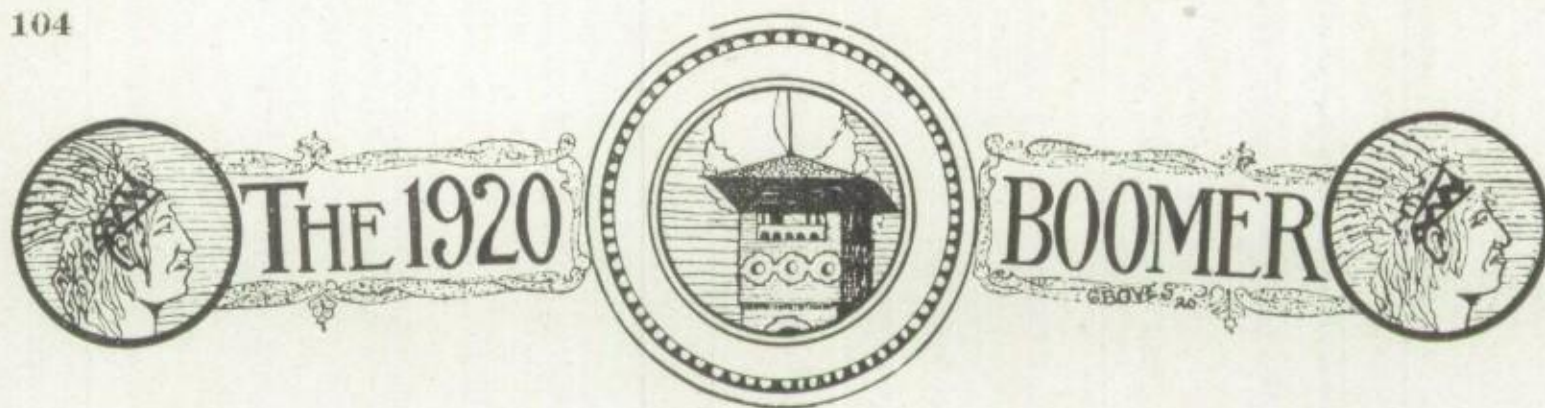

There were fourteen schools entered besides our own, and, including our own, there were 121 entries. W. H. S. won the Meet with a total of fifty-two points against sixteen for her closest competitor. Webster Sharp of W. H. S. was all-around man with thirteen points and by piling up this total he wins the beautiful loving cup offered for the best all-around man.

All of the events were more closely contested than the total number of points scored by each school would seem to indicate. There were only two events in which W. H. S. failed to place for at least one point. These were the broad jump and the discus throw.

We hope for a better and bigger Meet for this organization each succeeding year and we pledge ourselves to do all that we can to see that it is a success as long as it is held under the auspices of Woodward High School.

DEBATE CLUB

The Woodward High School Debate Club met on September sixteenth to start on a year of hard work, with Mr. Baird as director. There were fifty present, the largest number that has ever been out to a meeting, and much enthusiasm was manifested by all members.

At the second meeting a movement was put on foot for a club paper, to be edited by Charles Withgott. The attitude of the student body was so favorable to this movement that it resulted in a school paper called the "Sand Bur," which is published every two weeks.

Excellent progress was made in the weekly meetings, until the Christmas vacation. The programs all during the semester were very interesting, and the members who were called upon to participate in them never disappointed their audience.

Officers were elected after vacation, and the real work of the year, on the state question, was begun. Out of the eleven contestants for the team, Arthur Van Deusen was chosen first speaker; May Van Deusen, second; Claude Leachman, third, and Ruth Gober, alternate.

The remainder of the season was devoted to work on important topics of universal interest that confront the public at the present time.

DRAMATIC CLUB

Of all the arts, the drama comes the closest to man. It dwells with him. It embraces all the arts and gives life, voice, form, and function to them all. No other art uses such a multiplicity of forces. It teaches wisdom to the man who never opens a book; it teaches justice and awakens pity; it celebrates man's liberty and his struggles, and all that is noble wanders into it. It is, in fact, the plainest, the most direct, and the most impressive form of all teaching.

Believing that everyone should receive some practical stage training, a group of students met on October 5, and organized "The Dramatic Club" of W. H. S. The Dramatic Club this year is composed of thirty-five members from the Senior, Junior, and Sophomore classes, who met and elected sponsors and officers and adopted a constitution. The purpose of this club is to develop the dramatic talent in the school, and it has flourished and expanded under the directors, Miss Wagler, Mrs. Whitcomb, and Mr. Warren, with special training by Miss Hines.

"Engaged by Wednesday" was presented very successfully at the Convention Hall, to a full house, who received it with much applause. On March 5, the second production was rendered in the high school auditorium at the assembly period. The cast accepted an invitation to appear before the Junior High School in the same play.

These two plays are not all that will be given this year, for two more are contemplated and, with the hearty support of the students of W. H. S. and the co-operation of the business men, the future looks bright and promising.

Dramatic Art should be given a prominent place in every high school, because of its eminent value as a means of personal culture; because it cultivates the imagination, which is the mother of all arts; because it broadens sympathy, which is the inspiration of all true teachings and because it nurtures that sense of beauty which refines the character.

Let us bear in mind the usefulness of the culture of dramatic talent and have a Dramatic Club, full of interest and life, in the succeeding years. Let us give our attention more and more to the plainest and most impressive form of all teachings—the development of dramatic talent.

GLEE CLUB—1920

The Glee Club was organized in January with twenty-five members, under the direction of Miss Helen Hines, who has proved herself an able member of the faculty of W. H. S. She has trained these girls until W. H. S. now has a chorus that any school can well be proud of.

April twelfth the club gave their first concert in the Christian Church, with a large number present, who duly appreciated the program rendered.

The concert opened with the entire club in "I Know a Bank Whereon the Wild Thyme Blows," from Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream." The concert was indeed a success, and was appreciated by everyone.

Considering that the girls take Glee Club as an additional subject, three hours a week, the school can well be proud of the efforts and work accomplished by the club.

Nine of the twenty-five will be sent to Norman, May thirtieth to represent the club and school in the State Meet.

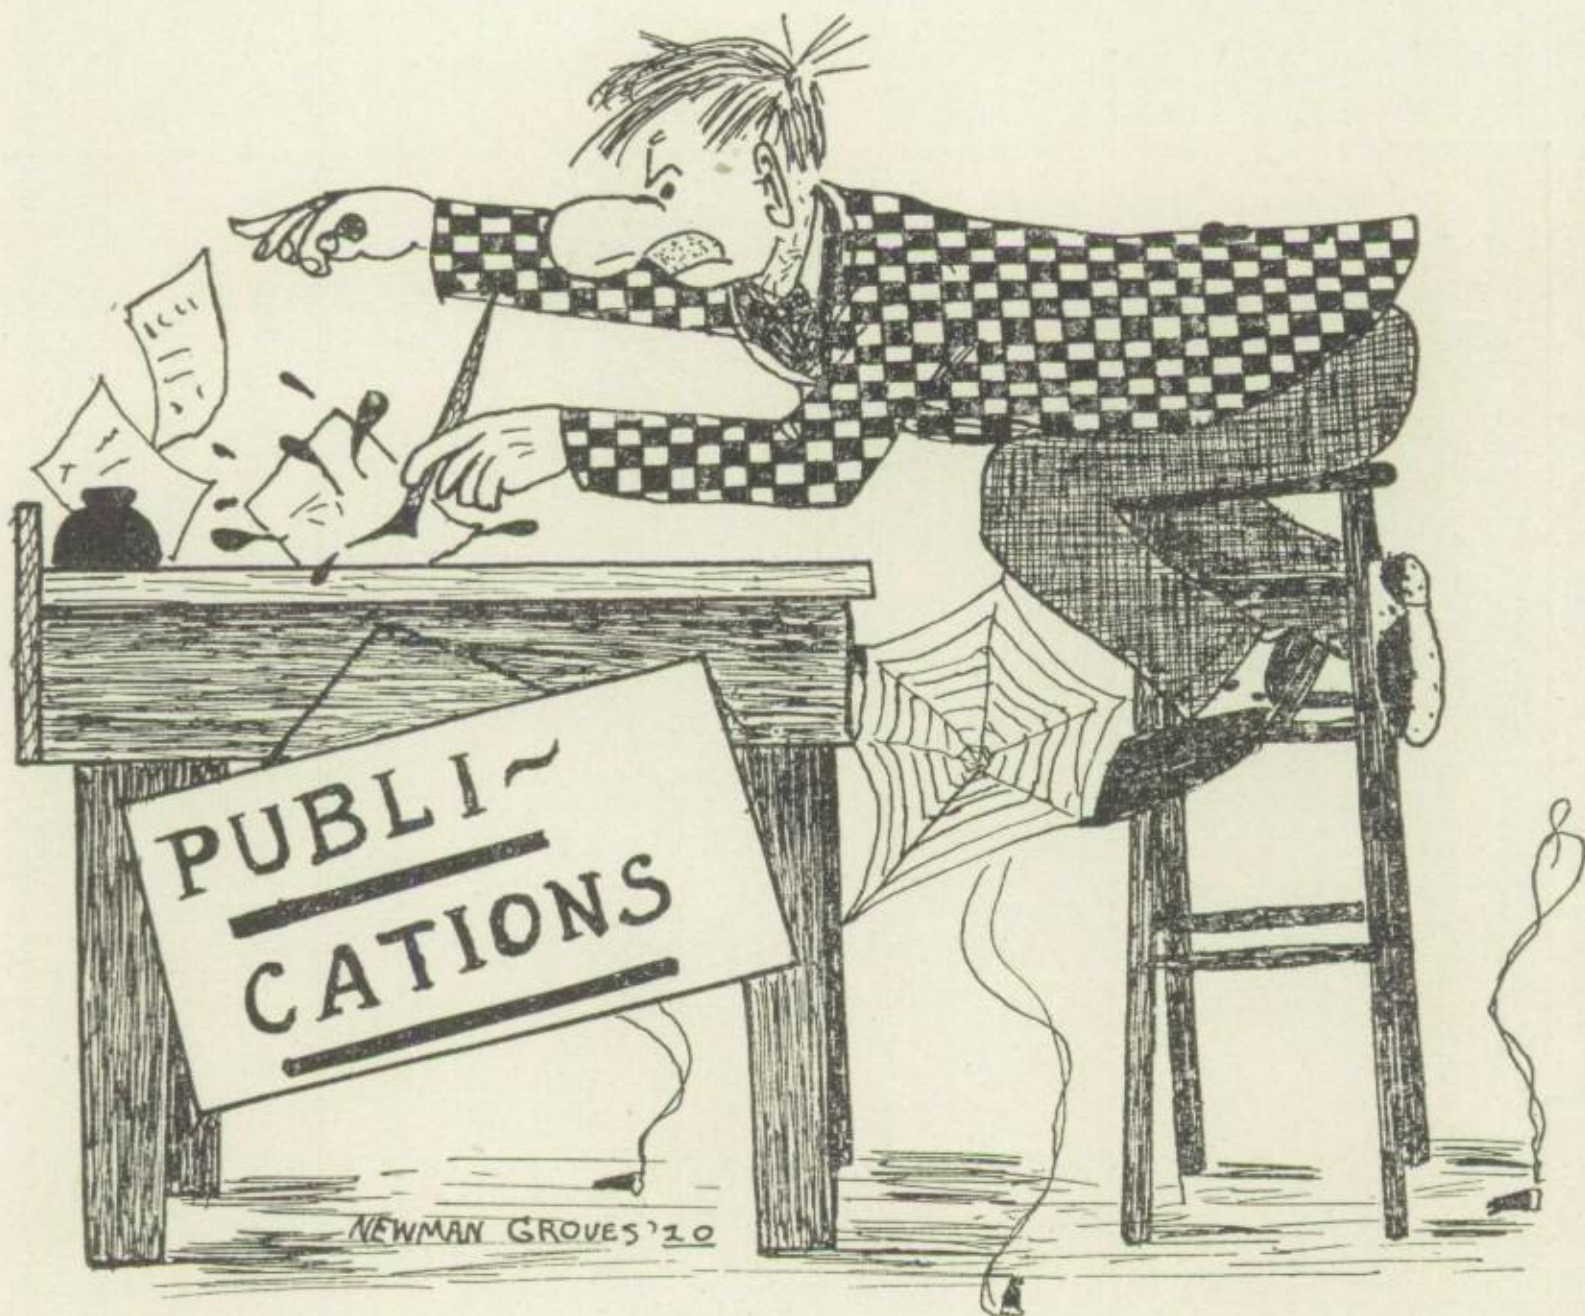

All W. H. S. wish them the greatest success for the future.

OUR PAPER

This is Volume VI of the Northwest Wind, a paper published annually by the Junior Class of W. H. H. We believe this to be the last issue of the Northwest Wind as a magazine. We take this means of thanking our advertisers, one and all, for their kindness in helping us make this the best Northwest Wind ever published. The Class of '20 put out a very fine paper in their issue. It was a credit to them as well as to W. H. S. But in this we believe that we have succeeded in overcoming many obstacles and have published the best Northwest Wind ever put out by a Junior Class of Woodward High School.

D. K. '21

OUR THANKS

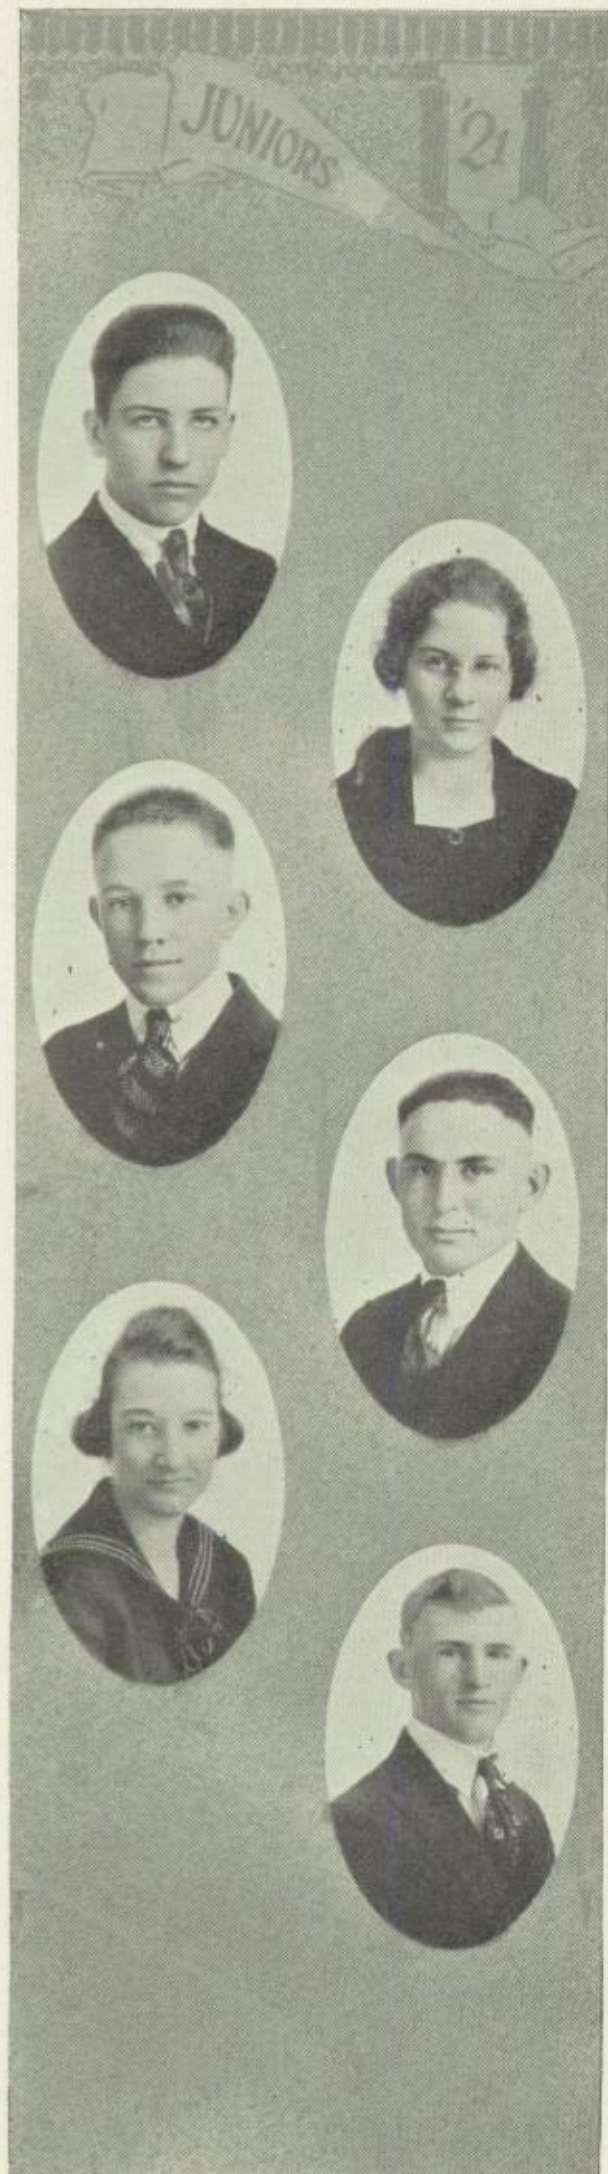

We wish to express our thanks to those who have kindly assisted us in making this paper as we see it now.

First, the student body who furnished the material to make the paper.

Second, to the typewriting class who kindly spent several hours writing the proof for us.

Last, but not least, to Miss Hayden, who gave particular attention to the writing of the paper.

We, the Junior Class, the editors of the sixth edition of the Northwest Wind, wish to express our appreciation for the help she kindly gave us. We feel that we are greatly indebted to her for the success of this paper.

THE SAND BUR

At the second meeting of the Debate Club this school year, the members decided to have a club paper. For four months the paper was just written and read in club meeting. However, about Christmas time a vote was taken to make a school paper of the club editions. The name of "Sand Bur" was finally selected for the publication-to-be, Mr. Baird being the suggestor of the name. The first issue appeared on Jan. 7, 1920. This paper consists of four pages without advertisements, but it is the first real high school paper, as the Northwest Wind is more of a magazine. The first volume of the Northwest Wind consisted of two issues. Since that, it has been edited annually. The Sand Bur staff succeeded against many odds, in putting out eight issues. We are hoping to see it merged with the Northwest Wind next year and continue as the best high school paper in Oklahoma.

An Amateur Actor

Yes. It was his first appearance on the stage, before an audience. He felt sure that he would make good, nor did he disappoint himself. The energy and vigor; the expression and effect were marvelous. The audience was held in suspense and waited breathlessly until the last word had left his lips. Then, as in a dream, he saw a thousand people, as it were, rise to their feet, swing their right arms and let fly their missiles. He saw those horrible weapons leave their hands; he staggered backward to escape the shower. Ah! yes, he had failed; failed miserably, no one need tell him that, and this was his reward.

Suddenly Alfred saw a million stars; a pain shot through his head and spread down his back to his feet. At last he felt it safe to move, but oh, what pain and misery it caused him. He opened his eyes. All was dark and silent. He had fallen out of bed.

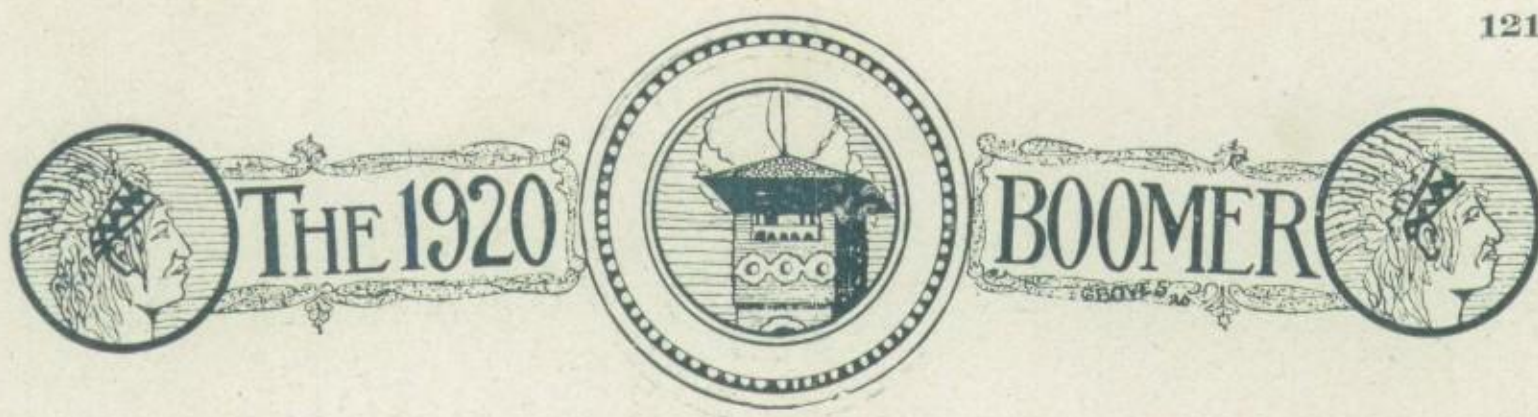

"Say, listen, aint I supposed to be in that picture?"

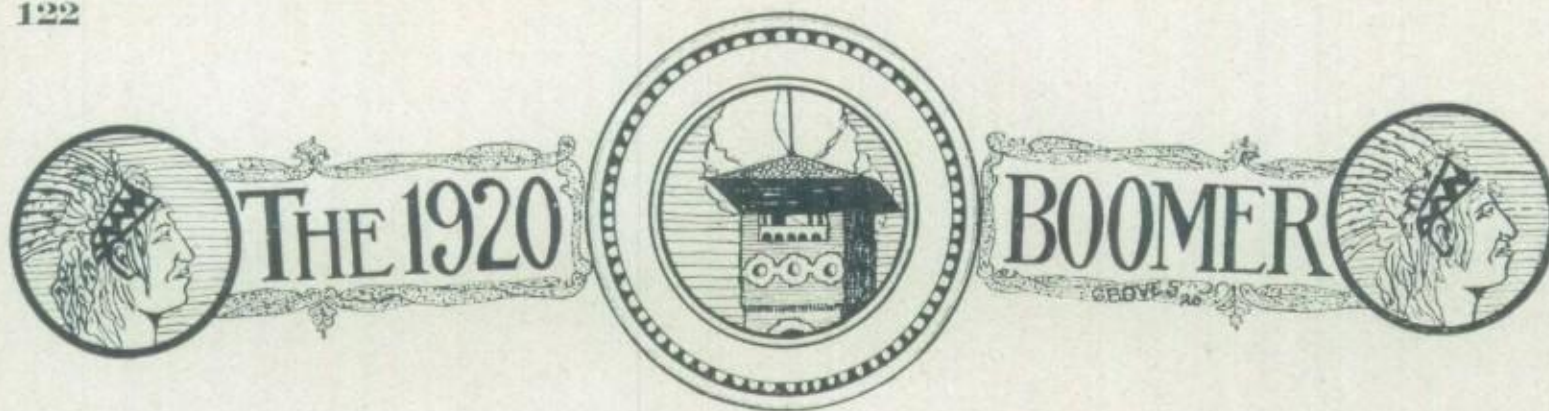

SOCIETY

GEORGIA WALKER

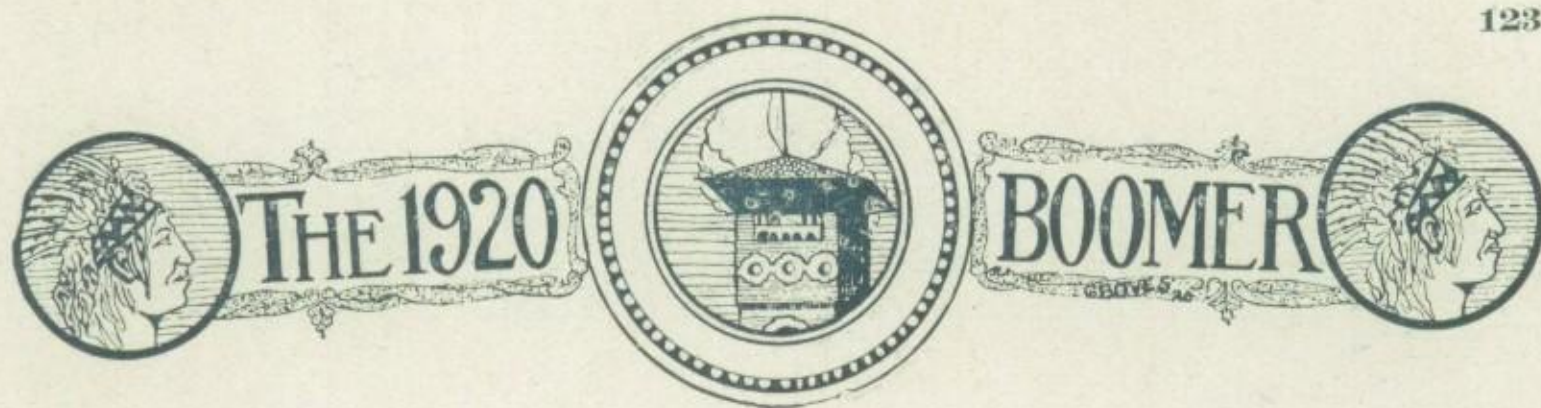

The title of Queen of Beauty this year was bestowed upon Georgia Walker, a Senior. This is not her first laurels in the realm of "Vanity Fair," for last year she was named Junior Queen.

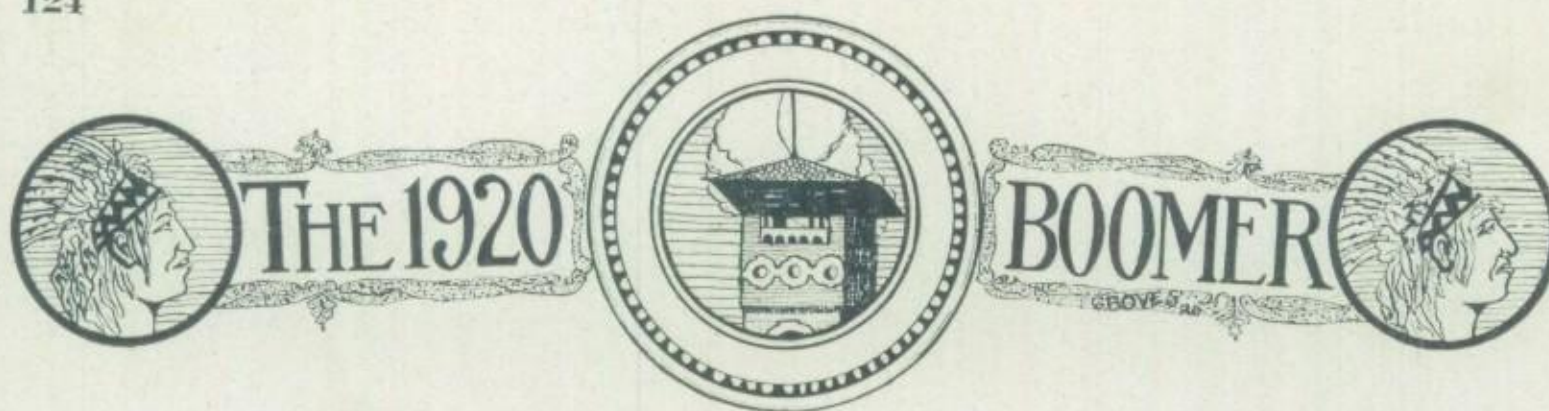

MARY QUISENBERRY

Although a Sophomore in the High school, Mary won this year the position of second Beauty. This is unusual, as a rule, for they are generally Juniors or Seniors. Mary will certainly make the others "step" in the two years she has ahead of her.

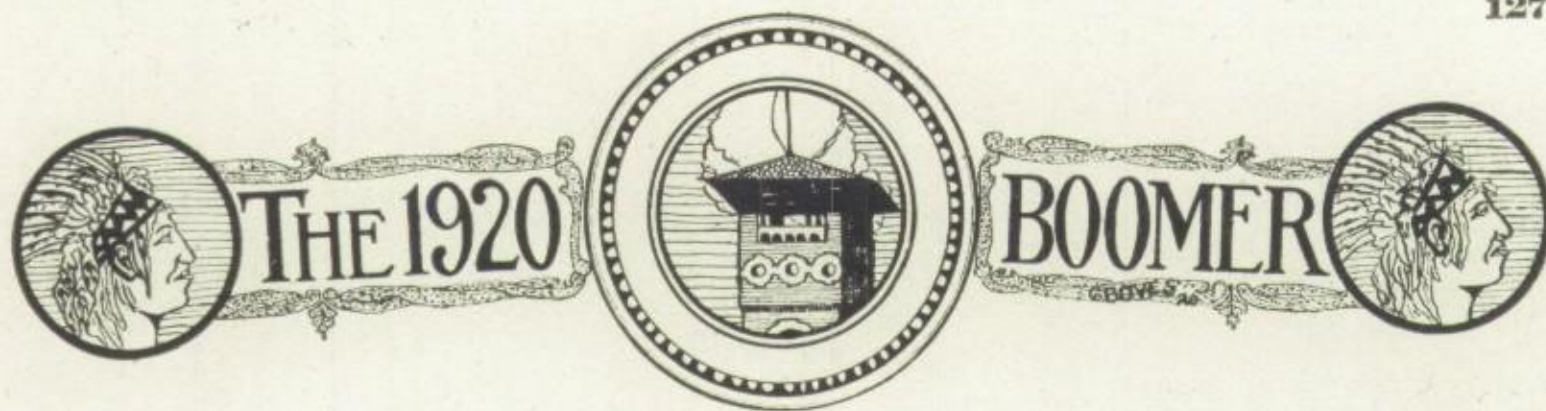

CECILA SHELLHART

The title of third Beauty falls on Cecila Shellhart, a person full worthy of the title, for in every way she merits it.

Reception to Freshmen

On September twenty-third the Sophomore, Junior and Senior Classes welcomed the "Freshies" into their midst by a reception given at the school building. The first part of the evening was spent in getting "mixed up." After all felt that they knew everybody present, the buying and selling of paper dolls began. This continued until some one succeeded in getting all of the pieces he needed to "construct" a beautiful lady. Following this, a program, (composed of school talent), was rendered, that was enjoyed by all. Delicious refreshments were served and then—home.

Freshmen Return Reception

On the evening of October 17, 1919, the Freshmen of W. H. S. decided to return the honor conferred upon them by their upper classmen. And little dreaming that their entertaining might be immature or their facilities weak, they asked that all of us be present. Nevertheless, the act of this verdant body rather surprised us and we moved happily about, now participating in the childish games, now lingering near the punch bowl, time seemed to have turned backward in its flight and we were all Freshmen again.

S. F. '21.

Senior-Junior Reception

The Senior-Junior Reception, given by the Senior Class in honor of the Juniors, caused much excitement between the two classes, both before and at the time it was given. One of the Junior girls forgot to eat her supper, and another spent precisely three hours and fifty-nine minutes getting ready.

The reception was announced for eight o'clock on the evening of the 24th of February, at the Community Building. Although it was not yet finished, it was considered the only place large enough. The company numbered a few over a hundred.

Although there was a brisk breeze blowing, and the house was not as warm as it might have been, it was a great change from the outside. As Mr. Warren likes publicity, he appointed himself janitor and in that capacity saw to the heating of the room, much to every one's relief. But—he was found shortly after, at a table with Miss Wagler and two other girls, and he hadn't even the grace to keep from laughing at Mr. Baird, because he was not so lucky.

Card games were in progress for the next hour. Then everyone was called for the business in hand to gather in their respective corners. A track meet was held next, consisting of persons chosen from each corner. During this we found that Mr.

Baird was most witty and wise. (We had already suspected it).

A change took place: The girls were lined up on one side of the room, the boys on the other. They were numbered, thus determining the supper partners. Mr. Ward suddenly appeared as from a clear sky, with a dish of ice cream, the size of which was stupendous. He hurriedly sought the shelter of the rafters as a refuge from the vengeance of the others. A few minutes later he walked up just in time to be numbered, and with "my fair lady" on his arm, he deliberately went around and got a second dish. How he managed the first is more than we can conjecture.

Miss Herron had for her partner, Miss Ruth Gober, though maybe it was Ruth that possessed Miss Herron. They were late in getting their turn and when they found a vacant table, they learned, to their deep consternation, that if they did not hurry they would be left all alone to finish. It is real enjoyment to see either Miss Herron or Miss Ruth flurried. Miss Hayden had won renown earlier in the evening by winning the hundred yard dash, (an eighteen inch string, to the end of which a marshmallow was attached). Miss Shockley was a candidate for the race in which BIG FEET were to play the most conspicuous part. And by the time supper, if it may so be called, was over all the faculty and many of the students had done things which count for much in a gathering like this one, and for more in the memory of those who will not soon forget one of the most enjoyable evenings of the year.

FAMOUS SAYINGS
of HARR the Great

"Play football? That's the only thing I can't do anything else but"

"Whenever one of them low-browed Hicks from Alva runs against me, he's gwine to be aint."

"I bet I hit them guys so hard that it jurred their grandchildren!"

'TE, HARR, LAUDAMUS'

The corn is in the shock,
The pumpkins on the vine;
We wound up Alva's clock—
We surely did it fine.

All hail to our great star:
Harr Mamac the great;
Lord high bottle washer
And football potentate!

He gets them on the run,
He gets them on the set
When Harris playing ball
We know which way to bet.

HARR Was one of the Stars Friday

Oh! Harr, our mighty football king
I cannot look thee in the bean
Without reflecting that your dome
Suggests the words "Nobody home."

EXCUSES FOR ABSENCE GIVEN TO MR. WARREN

Verna L.: "Why, there was a dance at our house and I, no, that wasn't the reason; let me see."

Richard H.: "The old cow got out last night and I had to run her down."

Marcella R.: "Why, what reason was I going to give?"

Ruth K.: "Why! Mother does not care; you do not, do you?"

Ivan M.: "I couldn't get the Ford cranked."

Mary C.: "——went home with me and we did not get up this morning."

Maude Ellen: "Your old clock is fast."

Ethyl J.: "I took my shoes to the shop early yesterday and didn't want to come to school bare-footed."

Mary V.: "Mother was not at home so there was no one to wake me."

Drula M.: "I forgot to turn the alarm on."

Lucy B.: "A big, long freight train stopped on the track just ahead of me."

Ethel M.: "Mother was sick,—no, I was."

Doris S.: "I had to stay at home to answer the 'phone."

Evelyn D.: "I ate too many bananas."

Ralph: "I would do anything in the world for you, Georgia."

Georgia (at 12 p. m., yawning): "Well snppose you go home."

Miss Nichols: "Who was the law maker of the Spartans?"

Kenneth: "Liquor Juice." (Lycurgus).

Miss Herron: "What do you know about Aladdin's Lamp?"

Morris B.: "If he's the new kid in the back row, I'm the guy that blacked it for him."

SHOULD WE LAUGH

When Claude scolds for not singing our school songs with all our strength?

When all the 7th hour Geometry class have their lesson?

When Scoville Heckart goes to sleep in class?

When Marianna makes queer remarks?

When Dorthy Eilers and Arthur Morey study together?

When Mrs. Whitcomb leaves us in the study hall?

When Fatty takes Louise's chair from her?

When innocent Juniors beg to be excused for skipping class?

When the boys throw chalk when the teacher leaves them?

When Ethyl Jones skips her sewing

Ruth Kent: "Chinese".

Miss Taylor (At Alva): "Oh, I feel just like crying."

Miss Herron: "Well, there is a ball room here."

Claude gets terribly vexed sometimes. Do you suppose he thinks that this is an institution for people who can't get together?

Miss Vincent: "Lucy, what is a fruit?"

Lucy: "Well, a fruit is a vegetable."

Helen M.: "Did you take my pencil?"

Plessie: "No, but I took my own."

Leo Fuller worried about his dog's sickness. He came in and told his mother his troubles.

Mrs. Fuller: "No, your dog is not sick, he just thinks he is. Go and tell him so."

Two hours later Leo came into the house crying.

Mrs. Fuller: "Now, what is wrong?"

Leo: "Fido thinke he is dead."

Helen M.: "They say that silence is golden."

Leo W.: "Yes, it would take an awful lot of money to make some people keep quiet."

Miss Hayden: "Where had Charles II been?"

Ralph L.: Oh, was he the one that was beheaded?"

Claude (In Assembly): "Now I have something which I have been wanting to tell you for a weak back. Sloan's Liniment."

Louise Long: "She's a decided blonde."

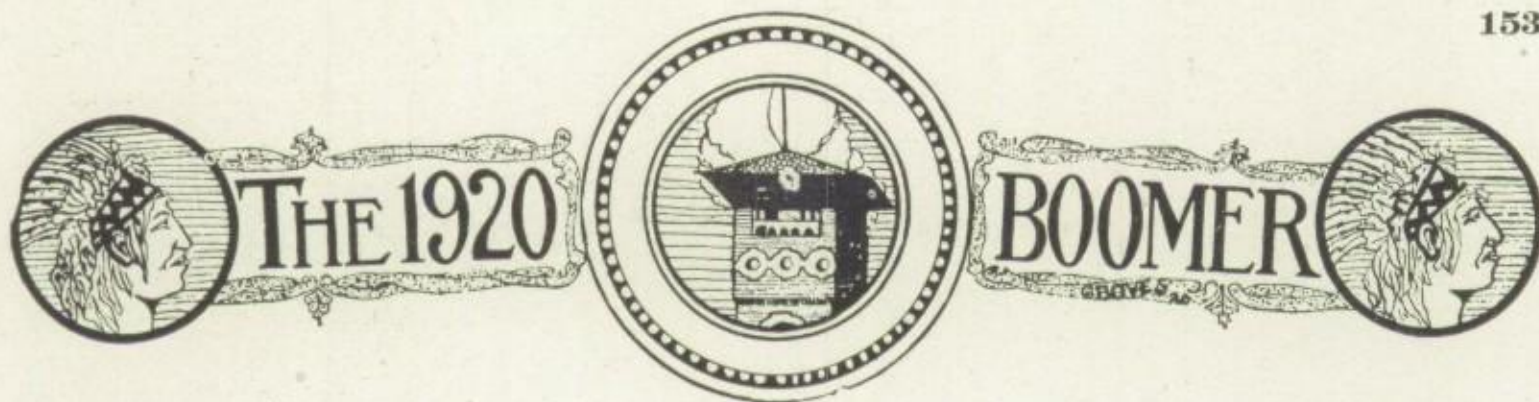

Arthur Morey: "Yes, but she only decided recently."

JUST BEFORE THE EXAM, TEACHER

Just before the exam, teacher,
I am thinking most of you,
While upon the board I'm watching
With the questions all in view.
Comrades brave are around me sighing
Filled with thots of home and work,
For well they know that on the morrow
Some will have a sad, unhappy look.

Chorus:

Farewell, teacher, you may never
Have we in your class again.
But, oh, you'll not forget me, teacher,
If I'm numbered with the slain.

Hark, I hear the teacher scolding
And it gives me thots of flight.
Now may God protect us ever,
As He always does the right.
Hear the cries and groans of anguish,
How they swell upon the ear.
Oh, yes, we'll answer every question,
Or we'll perish nobly here.

THE COMMERCIAL WORLD WAITS ON YOU

Will You Profit by This Need?

There is an urgent demand for the services of high school graduates, and others, who have specialized in business education. Conditions today have established the importance of a business training. There is distress everywhere in the professions because such a large percentage are turning to a commercial life. This is a warning to young people and sufficient proof that the business field offers the most attractive and promising opportunities.

The Demand Cannot Supply

Scores of calls are received by this institution for its graduates that we are unable to fill. The percentage of high class positions that are not filled is increasing every year—THREE HUNDRED percent in the last four years.

E. B. C. Graduates are Competent

As a result of the standard maintained by Enid Business College, those who master the work enter in the business life with ease and confidence. They know that they know how to keep accounts; render financial statements; show losses and gains. They have been thoroughly trained in the art of letter writing; they have developed speed and accuracy in computation to a high degree. They can operate the typewriter without looking at the machine, accurately and with speed. They can transcribe it accurately and neatly, properly punctuate and arrange the letter. Because of the thoroughness of the training the graduate goes out confident; therefore more efficient.

Write for Information

We want you to thoroughly understand our plan of work and what may be reasonably expected as a result of our training. Your inquiries are solicited. You will be welcome at the college any time to examine the work, that you may decide wisely.

School is in session the year around. Do not waste the summer.

TRAIN FOR BUSINESS

If you were going to pilot an aeroplane, you would take a thorough training first, wouldn't you? If you are going to pilot a business, you will need as thorough a training for your work as the Aviator needs for his. Join the hundreds of High School students who enroll in our school every year. Take this short cut to Success. Our Free Prospectus tells "how." Write for your copy now.

Miss Herron had a great deal of trouble with one of her pupil's attendance. He was absent so often that she became suspicious and wrote a note to his parents, as follows:

"I am afraid that your son is playing truant and I would like your co-operation in securing a better attendance record from him." This was the reply:

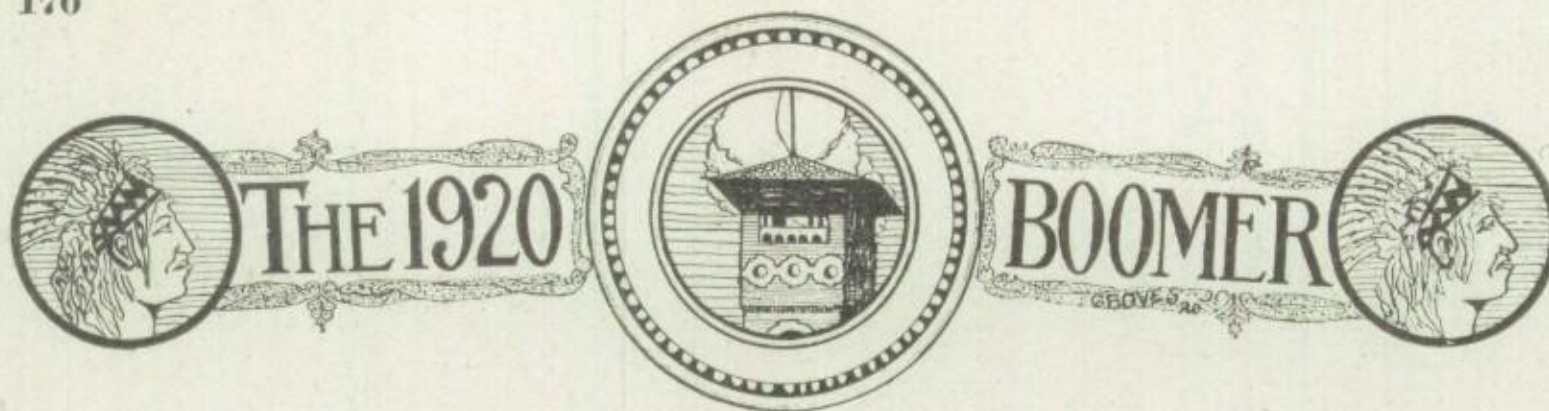

"Dere Teecher: If my son is playing truant he didn't lern it at home. We air church peepke and hain't got a card in our house."

Miss Shockley: "Hurley, are you chewing gum? Remove it immediately."

Hurley: "Who shall I give it to?"

Claude, telling Ruth about the speech he made on a football trip to Alva, said that after his speech it took the audience fifteen minutes to leave.

Ruth: "Well, what was the matter; were they lame or blind?"
